LBJ Asks to Combine Transportation Units

Leathernecks Clear Peninsula

U. S. Marines Find Fighting Heavy Near N. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine companies ran into heavy fighting late today in their drive to clear Communist forces from a canal-laced peninsula 55 miles southeast of the North Vietnamese border.

The action flared up again after the Viet Cong shied from contact Tuesday with the Leathernecks and Vietnamese troops hunting them down in the rice lands overlooking the South China Sea 12 miles southeast of the old imperial capital of Hue. Monday the Marines reported killing 40 Reds and capturing many weapons.

Light Casualties

Marine headquarters at Da Nang said the Leathernecks suffered light casualties in the new fighting with the large Viet Cong force. Communists losses were not known.

The battle was taking place about six miles southeast of the Marine camp at Phu Bai.

Otherwise U.S. planes carried the brunt of the war against the Communists today. Only scattered skirmishes were reported from American and Vietnamese forces slogging through the jungles and rice paddies.

Air Force B52 bombers roared past slumbering Saigon before dawn to drop their 500- and 750-pound bombs on a suspected Viet Cong storage area near Bien Hoa, only 20 miles northeast of the capital.

Another flight of the eight-engined bombers from Guam pounded a Viet Cong troop concentration reported by intelligence in Phuoc Tuy Province, 55 miles east of Saigon.

Despite heavy cloud cover, U.S. Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers flew 34 missions against North Viet Nam, relying mostly on radar to lead them to an assortment of bridges, roads and storage areas between the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone and the Vinh area.

The U.S. Military Command announced that 109 Americans were killed and 747 wounded in the fighting last week, which included a fierce Viet Cong assault on a regiment on the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 30 miles north of Saigon Thursday. No Americans were reported missing.

Previous Week

A week before, 112 Americans were killed, 405 wounded and four missing, the spokesman said, adding 29 dead and 96 wounded to the toll announced last week.

Vietnamese losses climbed from 197 killed and 77 missing to 379 killed and 183 missing. Other allied casualties for Feb. 20-26 were put at 18 killed and 40 wounded.

Viet Cong casualties declined somewhat to 1,122 killed and 92 captured compared with 1,357 killed and 122 captured in the previous week, a spokesman said.

Neutralize Asia

Fulbright Idea Is Called Impractical

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials discounted as impractical today Sen. J. W. Fulbright's call for a broad agreement with Communist China to neutralize all of Southeast Asia.

They said the Chinese Reds repeatedly have refused even to talk with the United States about a settlement in that war-torn region.

U.S. policy makers are convinced that the Chinese Communist leaders believe in fact that continuation of the war in Viet Nam and even the threat of more general conflict in Southeast Asia is in their interest until such time as Communist successes can begin to bring the area under Red control.

Hence, Fulbright's proposal, made in a Senate speech Tuesday is regarded by President Johnson's advisers as cutting across the current Peking doctrine and therefore having no prospect of practical application at this time.

Whether it will ever become possible, according to the view of these officials, depends on changes in the attitude of the Chinese Communist leadership. Some officials believe that the leaders in Peking, having suffered a variety of reversals during the past year or so, may now be confronted with a need for new policy decisions. But these officials also think that the result of a reassessment in Peking could be to launch Communist China on an even more dangerous course.

Central Issue

Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told the Senate that the central issue in the Vietnamese war is a contest between Chinese and American power.

"The prospect for a lasting peace depends far more on a resolution of that issue than it does on the matter of who is to participate in a South Vietnamese government and by what means it shall be formed," he said.

Weather Satellite

ESSA Sending Back Good Quality Pictures

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's newest weather satellite, ESSA 2, today successfully transmitted "good quality" pictures back to earth showing cloud formations over eastern and central United States.

It marked the successful completion of the first worldwide weather forecasting network.

A camera poking out the side of the hatbox-shaped spacecraft was turned on at 10:05 a.m. (EST) as the rapid-playback shutterbug satellite sped around the globe on its 25th orbit, slightly more than 48 hours after it rocketed into space from Cape Kennedy.

Aimed Toward Earth

Signals from the ground during the first two days of its mission gently maneuvered ESSA 2 into position so its cameras were aimed toward the earth.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., said the first pictures showed the Hudson Bay area, Great Lakes area and the tip of Florida and Atlantic Ocean as ESSA 2 orbited north-south across the eastern United States.

ESSA 2 is designed to take and transmit a picture every 352 seconds while the spacecraft is in daylight. In its eliptical north-south orbit ranging from 843 to 885 miles above the earth, ESSA 2 looks at sunlit portions of the earth about 82 per cent of the time.

ESSA 1, launched Feb. 3, unloads its pictures all at once so the Department of Commerce can produce a near-complete picture of the world's weather every day.

APT System

ESSA 2, however, has an automatic picture transmission (APT) system on board which sends pictures directly to any receiving station located within a 2,100-mile range as the satellite speeds overhead. More than 80 amateur and professional receiving stations have been built in 22 countries around the world.

Study Finds Little Boys Nice

Who is Sugar and Spice?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What are little girls made of? It could be snips and snails and puppy dog tails.

And little boys? How about sugar and spice and everything nice?

That's not quite the way a psychologist would put it, but that was more or less the conclusion reached after a study of first grade pupils to see who was nicer, boys or girls.

The psychologist concluded that girls are more aggressive and reject other people more than boys.

2-Member Clubs

First graders — 84 of them — were organized into two-member "clubs" with special names and badges. The members of each club were of the same sex and from the same classroom.

Later, children from other classrooms were introduced into each of these exclusive little clubs.

So which treated the newcomers better — boy clubs or girl clubs?

Exclusion, Rejection

"The initial response of girls to a new member, whether it was another girl or a boy, was more likely to be one of exclusion and rejection," said spokesmen for the University of California at Los Angeles in a report on the experiment.

"Many more of the girls," the report said, "on learning that a third child was to join them, spontaneously made some negative, critical remark.

"While previous studies have suggested boys were more aggressive than girls, such findings seem to relate to their greater physical activity.

"The indirect aggression of exclusion and rejection of a newcomer by the girls in this study appeared to be more a reflection of attitude which culminates in inflicting pain and discomfort on some other child."

The experiment was conducted by Dr. Norma Feshback, 39, a mother of three, including an 8-year-old daughter.

Morse Bill Rejected

Congress Passes Bill Authorizing $4.8 Billion Viet Nam War Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey faced questioning today on the administration's Asia policies after Congress' overwhelming passage Tuesday of a $4.8-billion Viet Nam authorization.

Before approving the measure, the Senate crushed by a 92-5 vote an effort by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to revoke a 1964 resolution which endorsed the use of force by President Johnson to combat Communist aggression in Asia.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee — leadoff man in the questioning of Humphrey at an afternoon closed session — joined the hard core of presidential policy critics backing the Morse move.

Supply Measure

The House whisked the military supply measure thro by a 392-4 vote. In the opposition were four Democrats, Reps. Philip Burton and George E. Brown Jr. of California, William F. Ryan of New York and John Conyers Jr. of Michigan.

Then the Senate wound up 15 days of debate by slapping down the Morse proposal. Joining Fulbright and Morse were Sens. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

The Senate's 32 Republicans voted solidly against the Morse proposal in an action Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen depicted as registering party opposition to the "Morse viewpoint."

Gruening offered an amendment to prohibit the use of draftees in Viet Nam, unless they chose to fight there. It was chopped down by a 94-2 vote, with only Morse supporting Gruening.

Negative Votes

Gruening and Morse cast the only negative votes when the Senate passed the money measure 93-2. A compromise of minor differences between the two Houses remained before the bill goes to the President.

Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat who earlier had proposed the neutralization of Southeast Asia and an accommodation with Communist China, said in an interview he decided "right at the end" to vote for the Morse proposal.

"I approve of his (Morse's) sentiment," he said. "I wanted to give him a good vote."

Fulbright said he regrets passage of the 1964 resolution which he sponsored at the time. He added it was passed after the Tonkin Gulf attack "but now you have an entirely different set of circumstances."

Voting Reason

One reason he voted as he did, Fulbright said, "was because I didn't want to reaffirm the damn thing."

There was argument over whether the vote on the rider reflected approval of Johnson's course in Viet Nam. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said the action put the Senate "solidly behind the President."

McCarthy, who voted with Morse, said the 1964 resolution did not give the President any more power than he already had. He said Morse's amendment would not take any authority away from the chief executive.

Responsible Action

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Johnson believed the Senate had acted responsibly in rejecting the Morse proposal.

"The President welcomes and our fighting men and allies will gratefully approve the congressional actions of today," Moyers said.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said rejection of the Morse proposal was a vote to keep in effect, "for whatever

Viet Nam War 'Distant Dim,' Hershey Says

Americans Don't Understand but Like Prosperity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, said today Americans don't like and don't understand the "distant dim" war in Viet Nam but "they like the prosperity" it generates.

Hershey, who in nearly a quarter century as head of the Selective Service System has directed the military draft of 13 million young men, said the general public doesn't understand the war in Viet Nam because: "It's distant, it's dim

Committee to Hear Hershey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep L. Mendel Rivers said today the House Armed Services Committee he heads will hear Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey and then decide whether to investigate the military draft.

The South Carolina Democrat's statement came after 30 Republican House members called for an immediate probe. Hershey is Selective Service director.

The Republicans charged Tuesday that the present draft system is haphazard and mired in a "red tape jungle."

Rivers, whose committee would make any such investigation, said none of the Republicans had talked with him in advance of their statement.

Cabinet Post Would Pull Together Various Federal Agencies of Allied Nature

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to create a department of transportation pulling together many activities now handled elsewhere, and to provide $700 million for a six-year highway safety program and $200 million for the supersonic transport plane.

In urging a 12th Cabinet post, Johnson said "America today lacks a coordinate transportation system that permits travelers and goods to move conveniently and efficiently from one means of transportation to another, using the best characteristics of each."

He proposed the development of such a coordinated system as a principal assignment for the new department.

Highway Safety

In the area of highway safety, Johnson proposed mandatory authority for setting up federal standards if voluntary methods fail.

Another proposal in that area was study of the feasibility of separate routes for trucks and automobiles.

And the President called for action to promote safety at sea, recalling recent disasters involving vessles not up to modern American specifications.

In the supersonic transport section of the message, Johnson proposed a schedule that would provide for flight testing of a 2,000-mile-an-hour aircraft by 1970 and commercial production by 1974.

The President has indicated that he wants increased taxes on fuels used by general aviation, a new tax on air freight and a fuel tax so that operators on the inland waterway system would help pay some of the new program's costs.

Department Functions

Johnson said the new department would bring together almost 100,000 employes and almost $6 billion of federal funds now devoted to transportation.

Among functions which would be consolidated in the department:

Man, 23, Shows No Emotion Over Trial or Penalty

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Charles Schmid's reaction since his arrest and Tuesday, when a jury found him guilty of murdering two sisters, has been notable for one thing—the lack of emotion.

"That's the way it goes," said Schmid, 23, after hearing the jury recommend death in the gas chamber.

Schmid was charged with murdering Gretchen Fritz, 17, and her sister, Wendy, 13, last Aug. 16. He was arrested Nov. 10, the day the girls' bodies were found. They were daughters of a prominent Tucson heart surgeon. The trial began Feb. 15.

Demanded Death

Prosecutor Richard Schafer, said in demanding the death penalty, Schmid killed Gretchen because she knew that Schmid had slain Alleen Rowe, 15, and this was enough to "send him to the electric chair."

Schmid is charged with first-degree murder in the Rowe death.

County Atty. Norman Green said Schmid would be tried for murder in the Rowe case March 15, four days after sentence is formally passed in the Fritz slayings.

Coup Killed 11 Russians

Foreign Communist Advisers Are Expelled by New Rulers of Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — A forced exodus of foreign Communist advisers from Ghana was under way today. Planeloads of Russians were being expelled and similar treatment was expected for Red Chinese advisers to ousted Kwame Nkrumah's government.

Eleven or more of the Soviet advisers were reported killed in the revolution last Thursday.

Two Ghana Airways turbojets left today with 130 Soviet citizens — technical assistance personnel and their families. Some Russians and Communist Chinese had preceded them in the past few days, but this was the first large group since Nkrumah was overthrown.

Under Guard

An airport attendant said those who left today arrived in five buses under army guard. Troops surrounded the terminal building while they went through customs and immigration. Soviet Ambassador G.N. Rodionov saw them off.

A spokesman for the Soviet Embassy said there were "less than 1,000" Soviet technical assistance personnel in Ghana including Soviet teachers. Other diplomatic sources put the number at 250 to 300.

Diplomatic sources said it was not clear whether Lt. Gen. J.A. Ankrah's military government would break diplomatic relations with Moscow and Peking. John B. Elliott, Ghana's ambassador in Moscow said Tuesday he had delivered a note to the Soviet government spelling out the position of the new government and the Soviets said they would consider it.

Ankrah, head of the National Liberation Council, said Monday that Ghana would return to a true nonaligned policy in foreign affairs.

The new government banned all political activities until further notice and said it would take "drastic measures" against persons engaging in such activity. The regime previusly had disbanded Nkrumah's Convention People's party.

In Moscow the Soviet Union maintained absolute secrecy on its dealings with Nkrumah, who arrived from Peking Tuesday. There were rumors that he would seek asylum in the Soviet Union, that he would join his wife and children in Cairo, or that he would go to another African country with a government friendly to him. Tanzania, Guinea and Mali as well as the United Arab Republic have condemned his overthrow.

Troops Guard Gaza, Forgotten Trouble Spot

By GARVEN HUDGINS

GAZA (AP) — Stretched along 145 miles of desert frontier, a thin line of blue-helmeted United Nations troops quietly keeps the peace in an almost forgotten trouble spot.

Only a few years ago, headlines were full of the Gaza Strip as Egyptian and Israeli forces battled in this coastal area of Palestine.

Today the strip is quiet. The U N Emergency Force — UNEF — keeps it that way.

Western Communist and so-called non aligned nations combined to form an effective force for peace. More than 400 soldiers from Yugoslavia stand with 4,000 troops from Canada, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, India and Brazil to keep Israelis and Egyptians separated in the Gaza Strip and along the international frontier in Sinai.

The force first took up positions in March 1957.

Few Incidents

"Incidents have been few," comments Lt Col Gregers Bernhoft, commander of the joint Danish-Norwegian battalion. "There have been some attempts by both sides to cross the border from time to time but no serious clashes have taken place. Farmers have been able to cultivate their lands and to take care of their livestock within a few meters of the demarcation line and people on both sides go about their business without interference from each other."

Orange groves flourishing in what was desert land a decade ago testified to the force's effectiveness in Gaza.

The strip itself is Egyptian administered with full customs and passport barriers at its frontiers with Egypt proper.

Armistice Line

On the outskirts of the principal towns — Gaza, Rafah, Khan Counis and Deir el Ballah — a ditch three feet deep and three feet wide marks the 35-mile long armistice demarcation line between the Gaza Strp and Israel.

To the south, Canadian and Yugoslav contingents cover the 110-mile frontier between Israel and Egypt that runs through the sun-scorched Sinai to Ras al Masri in the Gulf of Aqaba.

Along the entire border the U N patrols their Israeli counterparts and Egyptian observation posts are testimony to the threat of new outbreaks of trouble.

"Sometimes forces from either side may try to cross the border in something like a game," says Norwegian Maj Rolf Staenn. "If nothing happens and we intercept them, the game is over."

Girls Posted

The Israelis, Staenn reports, sometimes post girls from their army along the line opposite emergency force troops.

The girls wear shorts and do a lot of smiling in trying to engage the boys in conversation," Staenn says. But U N troops cannot talk with them, no matter how much they smile."

This too, he says, is part of the game on the line.

The 30-caliber machine gun is the force's heaviest weapon.

If would-be infiltrators are intercepted they are held for action by a joint Egyptian-Israeli armistice commission, which determines what course to follow.

From the heights of the rolling sand dunes in the armistice line area, observers can easily see into Ashkelon, Israel. The merest footprint on the wrong side of the line can set off an investigation.

Commitment on Cyprus

The U N force is to be cut in March by some 600 troops under terms of a reorganization. The reduction will result mostly from the withdrawal of the battalion from Sweden, which has other peace-keeping commitments on Cyprus.

Contingents from Norway, Denmark, India, Canada and Brazil will stretch out their troops to compensate for the pull-out of the Swedish battalion.

The force's commander in chief, Braz's Maj Gen Syseno Sarmento, has logistics, operations, personnel, legal, financial engineering and medical sections in a Gaza headquarters. It cost $17.75 million to maintain the force last year.

"The expense is justified by the results obtained here," said one officer. "The orange groves you see along the frontier today are mainstays of the economy. They have grown up under the protection of the U N Emergency Force."

A major problem for troops is boredom, but many men sign on for an extra tour. The average tour is six months to one year.

There are leaves in Cairo and Beirut, Lebanon. Patrol duty on the line is split between companies in a given battalion so that half the unit can be in the base camp while the other carries out the never-ending patrols.

Eau Claire Teacher International Farm Delegate to Norway

MADISON (AP) — Amanda Tumm of Eau Claire has been selected as Wisconsin's international farm youth exchange delegate to Norway, the College of Agriculture reported Tuesday.

Miss Tumm taught home economics in junior and senior high schools for four years. She is employed now as a social worker for the Eau Claire county welfare department. She is a State University graduate.

Jewish Council Asks Suspension of Bombing

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Jewish Congress has urged President Johnson to suspend bombing of North Viet Nam, offer an immediate cease fire and propose negotiations that would include the Viet Cong.

It was the first public statement made by the organization on Viet Nam. The statement also called for support of U N Secretary General U Thant's proposal for elections in Viet Nam to include all elements.

Youth Gives 'Word' on Parallel Parking Plan

An Xavier High School student was the only participant to register on the applause meter at the College Avenue reconstruction pow-wow Monday night.

Ken Schermitzler of 418 E. South River St. got into the act near the end of the meeting at city hall and all but stole the show.

"I'd like to say a few words if I may on the College Avenue plans because after many of you people are gone, I will be stuck with this thing," the 17-year-old senior student told the group of about 100 adults.

His opening remark drew a spontaneous burst of applause from the audience and commendation from city and Chamber of Commerce officials for showing interest in the civic project.

Not "Sold" on Parking

The youth indicated he wasn't sold on the new parallel parking plan proposed for the avenue.

"With all that traffic behind you, I can't see parking parallel on that street," Schermitzler said.

He volunteered that he didn't think the new type of parking would work, commenting, "You'll have everybody and his brother racing for curb space."

Young Schermitzler said when the city conducted a parallel parking test on College Avenue more than a year ago, he found it hard to park.

However, the interested junior citizen had no orchids for diagonal (angle) parking either.

Explains Benefits

Members of the council's street - sanitation committee saw in the youth a potential convert and asked City Planner - Traffic Engineer Walter Rasmussen to explain the benefits of front-to-back parallel parking.

Rasmussen explained the new system would provide more than ample maneuvering space for motorists to park without interfering with passing traffic.

At the same time the youth received a verbal pat on the back for taking an interest in his hometown's future downtown.

Schermitzler indicated his attendance at the meeting had not been a class assignment. "I heard about the meeting and decided to find out what was going on," the youth told a reporter — and that he did.

Boy Thought He'd Blast Into Space by Setting Britches Afire

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A young boy admitted to police Monday that he had poured gasoline on the back of his trousers and lit it with a match in an attempt to "take off like a rocket."

The boy, 10, had said earlier two older boys had set his clothing afire. Detectives learned that the boy had been looking at a book with other children with pictures of rockets and missiles taking off.

He was treated at a hospital for burns on both legs and released.

Confusion of Opinions

LBJ Avoids Best Way Of Relating War Vews

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — While his critics and supporters on Viet Nam scuffle on the beach of public opinion, President Johnson has avoided making a detailed explanation of his case to the nation in a way that would give him the widest public audience and greatly help public understanding.

Doing it would be simple enough. If the White House announced well in advance that the President was going to make such an explanation to the nation at night it would be televised and broadcast, undoubtedly by all the networks, and thus get him maximum audience and attention.

For some reason not clear he has not done so, although he has sought to express his views publicly in other but less effective ways.

Last week, for instance, he made a major address in New York on Viet Nam but the nation was not informed well enough in advance to be looking for it. The result: only one major television network carried it at 9:30 p.m. Other networks carried a rerun after their 11 p.m. newscasts but by then a lot of people who might have listened earlier were in bed.

Last Saturday he held a news conference, in which he discussed Viet Nam at length, but insisted beforehand that it not be televised at all.

Previously he had held a rather impromptu news conference with reporters at the White House but there was practically no advance notice on this. And when he decided to go to Honolulu to meet with the South Vietnamese leaders, the whole thing was announced suddenly, again losing maximum attention.

On the other hand the public, by way of television, has been exposed for hours to testimony, for and against Johnson's Vietnamese policy, before the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee whose chairman, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, is one of the most important and persistent critics of Johnson's Southeast Asia policy.

At these hearings Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor — former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, former ambassador to South Viet Nam, and adviser to Presidents Johnson and John F. Kennedy — did a brilliant job of stating the administration's case.

But it is doubtful the general public, watching them testify, got the full impact of what they said or could retain the logic or continuity of it because they were constantly interrupted by critical committee members who injected their contradictory views.

As a result of these interruptions anyone not an expert on Viet Nam was bound to get a mixed and perhaps even foggy view of the administration's position. What the nonexpert got was a jumble of views.

Johnson also has relied on Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and some of his top aides to explain his administration's position.

But no one could state his case so well, or to so many Americans, or without distracting interruptions as Johnson himself if he went on national television at night, with plenty of advance notice that he was going to.

No president in this century has been so adept in handling Congress as Johnson and it is possible he wants to avoid as much as he can antagonizing any more men in the Capitol than now oppose or criticize his policies.

But it is hard to see any connection between this and a carefully thought-out address to the nation which would have the satisfaction of knowing the President had stated his case fully, step by step.

KHS Student Council To Push Leadership

KAUKAUNA — Plans are underway at Kaukauna High School for a student council sponsored leadership class, according to Sue O'Connor, student council president.

Purpose of the class will be to help train students interested in seeking student council offices. Some students are elected to the council and have no idea of its purpose, thus training classes could develop good leaders, indicated Miss O'Connor. Faculty members or outside speakers would be utilized to give talks on leadership. No dates have been set for meetings.

Kimberly Alters Building Plan Of High School

Changes Approved To Keep Within $425,000 Bonding

KIMBERLY — Changes in building plans for completion of the second floor of Kimberly Senior High School and enlargment of industrial arts and music areas to stay within the $425,000 bond issue were approved by the school board this week.

Total construction bids received earlier amounted to $437,553, exceeding the bond issue and leaving nothing for architect fees, legal fees and building equipment. Changes in building plans cut the cost of construction to $420,795 leaving the district $100,000 short of funds needed to cover other costs.

A special meeting of school district voters was set for 8 p.m. March 21 to discuss means of raising the additional $100,000 to equip the school. Being considered are a bond issue, taking money from the general fund, bank notes or a combination of bank notes and borrowing $40,000 from the State Land Office at less interest.

Start This Week

General construction, which will get underway this week, according to a representative of the contractor, DeCoster Construction, Green Bay, was reduced by $12,786 to $265,140 by eliminating an elevator in the school. Removal of an electric panel and transformer and decreased costs for the elevator cut the electrical contract from $79,427 to $78,413.

Elimination of a dust collector cut heating and entilating costs from $49,300 to $47,192 and minor changes in the plumbing specifications cut the cost of this work from $30,900 to $30,050. Langstadts' Electric, Appleton, Hietpas Inc., Little Chute, and Wenzel Brothers, Appleton, are the other contractors.

Major items in equipment will be $12,000 for science, of which the district will receive about 40 per cent reimbursement through

An All-Day Citizens workshop on juvenile problems in Outagamie County, which is scheduled for March 12, was discussed by the planning committee which included, seated, from left, Sister Mary Sebastian, secretary; Mrs. Ben Seaborne, hospitality chairman; James Vosper, co-chairman; and Robert Detloff, sectional meeting chairman. Standing are Arthur Malin, chairman of speakers, and Carl Bruno, Green Bay, State Department of Public Welfare. Purpose of the workshop is to acquaint the public with the work of the courts, law enforcement agencies and private and public organization dealing with juvenile problems. (Post - Crescent Photo)

Large Audience Expected for Parley on Juvenile Problems

Outagamie County Workshop Set at Madison Junior High

Approximately 400 to 600 persons are expected to participate in the Outagamie County Juvenile Problems workshop scheduled for March 12 at James Madison Junior High School.

A 25-minute question and answer interview on the forthcoming workshop will be heard at 9:35 a.m. next Tuesday on Radio Station WAPL's "College Avenue U.S.A." program. Judge Raymond Dohr and Robert M. Detloff, boys' department guidance counselor at Xavier High School, who also is chairman of sectional meetings for the workshop, will be interviewed.

In order to speed up registration at 8:30 a.m. on the day of the workshop a form will be printed as part of a half page advertisement that will appear in The Post-Crescent on March 10.

Keynote Speaker

Keynote speaker for the workshop will be Paul Keve, a specialist in juvenile problems who is director of court services for Hennepin County, Minneapolis, Minn. He will speak at 9:30 a.m.

There will be a general panel discussion at 10:45 a.m. on the philosophy, content and enforcement of the State of Wisconsin Children's Code featuring professional persons who work with juveniles.

Five afternoon workshops will deal with juvenile problems as related to church, home, school, law enforcement agencies, private and public health and

Lorge Tells Knowles He'll Oppose Suggested Site

Legislator Resents 'Scuttling'

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

State Sen. Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek) today told Gov. Warren P. Knowles that he will oppose the recommendation of a Green Bay site for the proposed northeastern branch of the University of Wisconsin.

In a letter to Knowles and members of the State Assembly, Senate, Coordinating Committee on Higher Education, State Building Commission and Site Selection Committee, Lorge said he resented "the scuttling of the intent and letter of the law" passed by the State Legislature authorizing a new university.

Last Friday, the Site Selection Committee recommended the Shorewood site on Green Bay's east side for the new campus. Monday, the Fox Cities Education Committee wrote to Knowles protesting the recommendation and asked him to nullify it.

Seek Injunction

Tuesday, Assemblyman Harold Froehlich (R-Appleton) said the Fox Cities group should seek an injunction to halt further action on the site selection. Lorge advised the group, Monday, to hire an attorney and seek an injunction. The group will consider the proposal Friday.

In his letter to Knowles, Lorge said he is "sure that the Legislature and the building commission will not authorize this type of 'dormitory-school' which would defeat the original concept of the bill, cause the state to spend millions of dollars in new highway construction and prevent most of the students in this area from commuting on a feasible economical basis."

He noted that the Legislature intended the new campus to serve the greatest number of commuting students.

Ignored Commuters

Lorge said that the committee, by recommending the Shorewood site because of "aesthetic beauty" has ignored the many students and their parents in the Appleton, Neenah-Menasha and Kaukauna area with a real interest in education on a commuting basis.

"The Site Selection Committee has not carried out its

Firemen Plan Parley

Chiefs to Visit Appleton

Appleton — to coin an expression — will have more chiefs than Indians July 10-13.

The reason: Wisconsin's fire chiefs are coming to town for a four-day stint.

The board of public works got the word Tuesday from Fire Chief Roland Kuehnl.

Bid Spenders

In his letter to the board asking for some financial and other support for the parley, Chief Kuehnl estimated about 500 visitors will pass through Appleton's hospitality gates.

Kuehnl, in addition to pointing out there would be considerable business transacted at the 1966 fire chiefs conference, hinted his colleagues could well be the last of the big spenders.

"... We intend to welcome them with open arms," said Chief Kuehnl.

Doesn't Have Funds

"There will be approximately 500 visitors to our city for a period of four days and this will mean in terms of spending monies approximately $12,000 to $15,000 per day," he added.

Kuehnl said the one hitch, however, is that the Appleton Fire Department does not have money budgeted to finance a conference of such size and will be responsible for all expenses involved in being host to the event.

As a result the fire department is putting out a booklet with paid advertisements along with accepting donations, Kuehnl informed the board.

Long-Range Planning On Natural Resources Cited by Assemblymen

GREEN BAY — Urgent need for long range planning on all natural resources was emphasized by Lawrence Johnson, Door County board chairman and a state assemblyman, in an address here this morning.

"Planning and adequate control measures are equally essential from social, political and economic standpoints," he asserted.

A veteran of 19 years in rural township politics, Johnson spoke at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Soil and Water Conservation District supervisors.

The meeting concludes Thursday after an address by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) Sam Studebaker, of Tripp City, Ohio, president of the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, will speak at the dinner tonight.

Research Cited in Pollution Control

Pulp League President Predicts Increased Efforts by Paper Mills

When research now in progress is successfully completed, pulp mills may be able to repurify liquid wastes to clear, clean water and thus control stream poilution more intensively than ever in the past, an industry authority announced today.

In the annual report of the Sulphite Pulp Manufacturers' Research League, Loren V. Forman, president, who also is vice president of Scott Paper Co., outlined the reasons for this prediction.

"We see an inevitable trend toward still tighter pollution control by our mills in the coming years of greater population," he told the League. "This challenge already shapes the League's research program in 1966 and the years ahead.

"In addition to the former standard approach of looking for ways to scrub up process water from pulping operations so that it can be returned to the river without overloading the stream's capacity for self-regeneration, League research now is aiming toward an eventual goal of keeping more of the waste water out of the river altogether," Forman stated. "This will allow the mill to make even further re-use of its process waters before returning them to the river. Our members mills will thus be serving the public interest, and simultaneously their own."

League scientists in the laboratory have recently succeeded in taking the dissolved materials out of spent sulphite liquor and other industry process waters to a degree of purity not previously attained, Forman revealed. But he emphasized that thus far they have done this only on a laboratory scale, and they now are checking the process and its operating costs in a pilot plant.

Board Declines Action On Agency Shop Veto

Public Works Refuses to Urge Support Of Gov. Knowles Move to Common Council

A move to get the City of Appleton on record supporting Gov. Knowles recent veto of the agency shop bill was relegated to limbo by the board of public works Tuesday.

Any attempt by the city to become involved in the governor's action is expected to encounter stiff opposition from organized labor in the Fox Cities.

Sensing the thorny issue, the board decided not to make a recommendation to the council at this time and referred the matter to the personnel committee to report back.

Previously, the board had asked the council to vote support of the Knowles veto but the recommendation was referred back with no action taken.

Agency Shop Bill

The municipal employe agency shop bill, which passed the legislature by a sizeable margin, would require employes to pay the initiation fee and dues although not belonging to the union certified to represent their work unit.

In letters to cities, towns and villages, the League of Wisconsin Municipalities has attempted to muster support for the governor's veto which faces a strong test at Madison in May.

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) led the attack against the Knowles' veto and the city becoming involved when he said, "The Appleton Common Council has no business getting involved in this issue."

"If we take a position on this bill, then we should do the same for all bills regarding labor that get into the legislature," Thompson declared.

Thompson said he doubted if any board members had even read the bill and recommended the League's letter be received and filed. "If aldermen want to take some action on this, they can do so as private citizens," Thompson added.

Union Representatives

Robert Schlieve, representing Teamsters Local 563, was one of several union representatives attending the meeting. He took exception to some recent comments of Public Works Director Robert W. Bues, who urged support of the veto, and questioned whether aldermen should take official action.

"I'm not here to argue the merits of the bill with you at all," Schlieve said. "But I do take exception to city officials giving support or opposition to a bill because I feel they should represent all the people and not their own personal interests."

Ald. John MacDonald (7th) raised the question why the matter had not been referred to the personnel committee for study and suggested it be done. The board concurred.

Bues reaction was, "By the time we get through, this bill will be acted on at Madison and it will be all over with."

"That would appear to be the idea," added a spectator.

CAB Port Designation Ruling Writes Final Chapter in Dispute

Officials Agree That Appeal, Court Action At End; Rally to Support 'Air Wisconsin'

Petitions to the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) by Outagamie County and City of Appleton to remove Appleton from the "Oshkosh-Appleton" designation for North Central Airlines service at the Winnebago County Airport have been denied.

The board action, taken Monday but not released until today, seems to be the final chapter of the Fox Valley scheduled airline service and regional airport controversy.

Various city and county officials who were contacted today agree that there will be no more appeals, requests for reconsideration or court fights. The answer now, as County Corporation Counsel Albert W. Ponath put it, "is to support Air Wisconsin to the fullest extent."

Decision Aftermath

The city and county filed the petitions with the CAB in February as an aftermath to the decision by the 7th District U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago which upheld the CAB's designation of the Winnebago County Airport, south of Oshkosh, as the North Central Airlines regional airport for service to "Oshkosh-Appleton." The petitions asked that Appleton be removed from the hyphenated designation.

Although it was not actually spelled out, the purpose of the petitions was to remove Appleton and the Fox Cities area from any official association with North Central service. As a result, Air Wisconsin, the Appleton commuter airline operating between the Outagamie County Airport and O'Hare Field in Chicago, would have officially been the only airline serving the Fox Cities.

"Actually," Ponath said, "Air Wisconsin is, in fact, the only airline which gives scheduled service to the Fox Cities. We wanted it to be official, as well."

Future in Performance

"But, no matter," he said, "we'll survive." Our future lies in performance, fact and action. Shortly, Air Wisconsin will get new and larger aircraft. When these planes come, Air Wisconsin will give the Fox Cities the frequency of flights we've always needed and the number of

Distinguished Citizen, Service Awards

Van Sistine, Long Honored by Jaycees

Richard C. VanSistine, past president of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, and Gerald L. Long, owner of A-1 Cartage, were honored at the annual awards dinner of the Appleton Jaycees Tuesday night at Reetz's Supper Club.

VanSistine, manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. office, was awarded the Distinguished Citizen Award and Long, who has been active in the Appleton Jaycees, received the Distinguished Service Award.

Finalists in the "My True Security" contest, sponsored by the Jaycees for high school youths, presented their talks and received awards. Mary Ellyn Asmuth, a student at Menasha St. Mary High School, received first place in the B division and Donna Nelessen, Kimberly, placed first in the A division. Second place awards went to Kathleen Dorsett of Xavier High School in Class B and to Kim Werner, St. Mary High School, in A division.

Community Service

The Distinguished Citizen Award is given to a person over Jaycee age who has made a significant contribution towards the growth of the community. VanSistine was cited for his service to the Chamber of Commerce, of which he is still a director; to the police and fire commission, of which he currently is a member; to the Appleton planning commission; the Golden Age Council, of which he is president; the Red Cross; the Boy Scout council; Community Fund, and his church.

Members of the committee which selected the award winners were Mayor Clarence Mitchell, 1964 recipient of the award; Dennis W. Herring, 1964 winner of the DSA award, and John Fernandez, Jaycee member.

Two Cited Nationally

The Distinguished Service Award is given to someone of Jaycee age, not necessarily a Jaycee, for outstanding community service. Long was vice president of the Jaycees last year and is chairman of the 1966 Miss Appleton pageant. He headed the Jaycee state convention committee and has been active in other Jaycee events. His services to his church and to the Boy Scouts also were mentioned.

The awards were presented by Joseph Burns, Jaycee president who noted that two members of the group were cited in the 1966 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America. They are Gerald Long and Jerry Schoepke, parliamentarian of the Jaycees.

Miss Luanne Briske, 1965 Miss Appleton winner, commended the My True Security speakers, their parents and their teachers as well as the Jaycees for their programs.

Donald Day was master of ceremonies for the program while Don DeLong handled the My True Security contest. Other members of the arrangements committee were James Church, chairman; Day, Charles Williams, Edward Benedict, Louis Micheln, Fernandez, and DeLong.

Board to Collect Past Assessments

Public Works to Withhold $1,635 From $8,000 Debt to Railroad

The Chicago North Western Railway Co. is going to be tapped for special assessments it owes the City of Appleton.

A recommendation was made by the board of public works Tuesday to hold back $1,635 from the $8,000 the city owes the railroad.

The $8,000 was levied against the city as its share of the cost of establishing the new grade crossing for the Washington-Franklin Street extension project.

However, before paying the bill, Public Works Director Robert W. Bues checked into the railroad's standing when it came to paying the city for special assessments levied against it in recent years.

'Substantial Amount'

"We checked our records and those on file at the county courthouse and discovered the railroad owes the city a substantial amount for special assessments," Bues said.

He disclosed the North Western owes the city $22,000 for different projects.

Bues claimed the railroad was delinquent by $1,635 on its payments, including principal and interest, some going back to 1957.

The board was told that just in the past two years the North Western started paying assessments on the city's five-year plan.

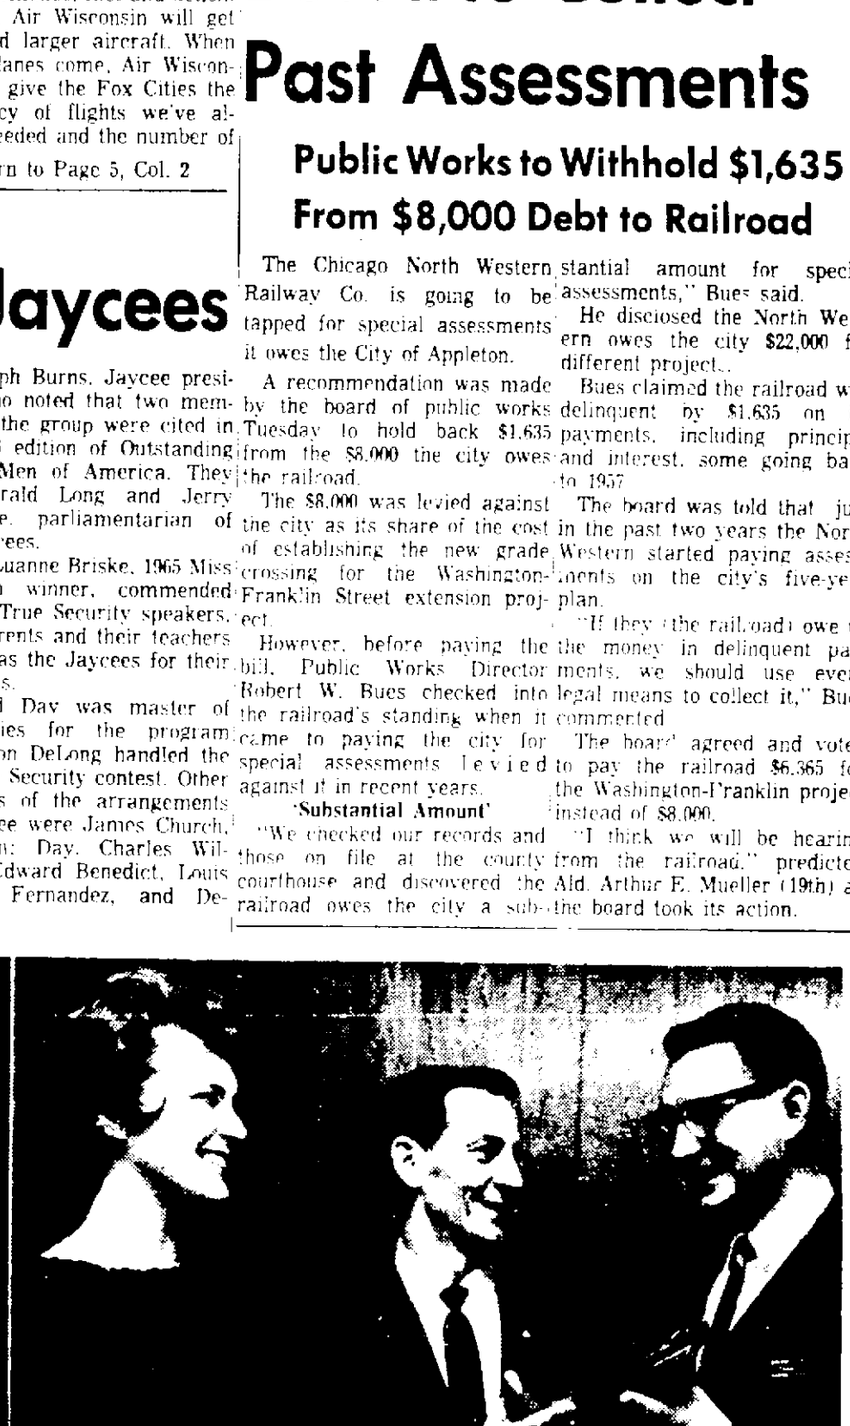

"If they (the railroad) owe us the money in delinquent payments, we should use every legal means to collect it," Bues commented.

The board agreed and voted to pay the railroad $6,365 for the Washington-Franklin project instead of $8,000.

"I think we will be hearing from the railroad," predicted Ald. Arthur E. Mueller (19th) as the board took its action.

Awards Were Presented at the annual distinguished service dinner of the Appleton Jaycees Tuesday night at Reetz's Supper Club. In the panel at the left Donald D. Day, program chairman, presents the distinguished citizen award to Richard Van Sistine as Mrs. Van Sistine watches. In the middle panel are the four top finishers in the Jaycee "My True Security" contest. From left are Kathleen Dorsett, Xavier High, second in Class B; Donna Nelessen, Kimberly, first in A division; Mary Ellyn Asmuth, Menasha St. Mary High, first in B division, and Kim Werner, Menasha St. Mary, second in B division. In the panel at the right Joseph Burns, right, Jaycee president, presents the distinguished service award to Gerald Long, club member. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Krippene 1 of 5 New American Can Vice Presidents

Official Will be in Charge of All Firm's Long-Range Sales Plans

NEW YORK — Designation of five broad and comprehensive market-oriented executives who will be responsible for developing and implementing comprehensive, long-range programs encompassing all of the American Can Company's product areas was announced today by Emmett W. Below, vice president and general manager for marketing.

This new executive group is comprised of five new vice presidents, all from within the company, and three present vice presidents whose new responsibilities expand their previous assignments.

Urban M. Krippene

Concerted Knowledge

"American Can now will approach the market place — whether in metal can, paper packaging, or glass or plastic containers, or in the consumer and commercial - industrial service disposable products fields — with the concerted knowledge our company has been developing for almost 65 years," Mr. Below said. "By bringing together all of our marketing and sales activities, we are uniquely equipped to offer American's total capabilities in serving the present requirements of customers and anticipating their future needs in each separate field of our range of products."

Elevated to vice president in specific areas of marketing as American Can charted plans to pursue the market-oriented, one-company concept of operations announced recently by William F. May, chairman and chief executive officers, were Tyler P. Cobb, Sal J. Giudice, Urban M. Krippene, William S. Woodside and Donald W. Riester.

American Can's new, nine-man marketing executive unit, headed by Below, is completed with the assigment of current and broadened responsibilities to Vice Presidents Richard H. McCarthy, Jr., Palmer B. McConnell and Robert J. Turek.

New Concep.

"Under our new concept of marketing, the Company's products in all fields — metal, paper and paperboard, glass, plastic and film — will be developed and marketed," Below said, "with complete service to customers as the primary objective."

While describing the company's total approach to marketing on its one-company basis, Below also pointed out that day-by-day business with customers will be carried out, as in the past, on the same specialized product selling basis corresponding to the different fields or markets in which its products must compete. Executive assignments, however, will cover a broad and comprehensive range of American Can's diversified lines of packing, consumer and service products.

Cobb, vice president for marketing beverage packaging, was national sales manager of food containers for the former Canco Products Sales Group.

Giudice, vice president for marketing household and industrial packaging, was national sales manager of industrial and household containers for Canco Products.

Born in Oshkosh

Krippene, vice president for marketing administration, was national sales manager of pulp, paper and chemicals for the former Marathon Industrial Products Sales Group. He joined the Marathon organization in 1939 and held varied sales and supervisory positions until he became sales manager, paper and board sales, pulp and paper division in 1958. He was named manager of distribution, Pulp and Paper Division in 1963.

Born in Oshkosh, Wis., he was educated at John Carroll University, Cleveland, Ohio, and now makes his home in Menasha. Krippene married the former Nancy Kimball and they have six children.

McCarthy, vice president for marketing drugs and cosmetics packaging, was vice president of plastic sales.

Donald W. Riester

vice president of Marathon Industrial Products Sales.

Riester, vice president for product planning and development, was director of paper products research and development, with previous responsibility as scientific director of rigid container research and development.

Neenah Post

He was formerly director, paper products research and development for the company at Neenah, Wis. Prior to that Riester was scientific director of American's rigid container research and development at Barrington, Ill.

He joined the company on graduation from the University of Kentucky in 1937 and has had extensive research and development experience in the field and laboratory.

He is a member of the American Chemical Society, Institute of Food Technologists, Chicago Research Directors Association, Chemists Club of New York, the Society of Plastic Engineers, TAPPI, Packaging Institute, Graphic Arts Technical Foundation, and the Industrial Research Institute.

Turek, as vice president for marketing consumer products, continues his responsibility for developing and expanding markets for American Can's household use lines. These include Aurora bathroom and facial tissues, Dixie cups, plates, dishes and bowls, Gala decorated paper towels, Northern bathroom and facial tissues, napkins and towels, and Waxtex rolls of waxed paper and sandwich bags.

Woodside, vice president for marketing service products, was administrative assistant to the chairman and chief executive officer.

"With this concentration of marketing know-how operating as a closely-tuned unit, American Can is prepared to serve the needs of customers in any of our fields with creativity, resourcefulness and manufacturing facilities unmatched anywhere in any area we now serve, or will serve in the future," Below said.

Council Questions Fairground Issue

MENASHA — The common council unanimously passed a resolution raising questions about the replacement of the exposition building on the Winnebago County Fairgrounds in Oshkosh and asked the county board to delay its decision on the matter.

The display building was destroyed by fire last year and replacement of the building, due to come up for action at the March 15 board meeting, has raised basic questions about the whole role and location of the fair.

County Supervisors Arthur Ales and John Pawlowski asked the council to take a position on the question, and the aldermen responded quickly to back them.

Appleton Man Fined $10 for Drunkenness

OSHKOSH — Carl J. Blehovde, 23, 606 Wisconsin Ave., Appleton, paid a fine of $10 and costs after pleading guilty of drunkenness on arraignment before County Judge James Sitter this morning. He was arrested by Winnebago County police Feb. 24 in a Town of Menasha parking lot.

Strongly-Worded Resolution

Twin City Opposition Mounting to Green Bay University Site Choice

NEENAH — Opposition to the recommendation that Green Bay be the site for a new four-year university is growing in the Twin Cities.

Mayor Carl Loehning will present to the common council tonight a strongly - worded resolution decrying the fact that youths of Neenah were disregarded when the site selection committee arbitrarily dismissed Neenah from its considerations in determining the commuting area to be considered.

The resolution will set down points of disagreement and ask that Gov. Warren Knowles set a public hearing to investigate selecting a new site to serve all the people of northeastern Wisconsin.

United Opposition

Mayors from all the Fox Cities, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and Appleton; village presidents from Kimberly, Combined Locks and Little Chute and chairmen of the Towns of Neenah, Menasha and Grand Chute will meet at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce office to voice united opposition to the selection made last Friday.

Their protest stating that the site selection committee ignored needs of this area will be forwarded to the governor.

Selection of the Green Bay site on a high area overlooking the bay came as a shock, not only to Fox Cities residents but as a surprise to the Green Bay committee actively seeking the university.

In a letter to Gov. Knowles and Walter Kohler, chairman of the coordinating committee for higher education, the Fox Cities Education Committee Monday requested the site selection committee's recommendation be nullified.

"The site selection committee has," the letter claims, "at its own initiative and without legal authority, altered the character of the institution.

The letter also notes that any of the six sites proposed in Brown or Outagamie counties accessible to U.S. 41 would be within practical commuting range of both metropolitan areas.

The Shorewood site (overlooking the bay), however, "extends commuting opportunities only to metropolitan Green Bay and completely eliminates students from the Fox Cities from this opportunity."

Town Committee Actively Aiding Menasha Board, Promoting Area

BY PETER GENIESSE
News-Record Staff Writer

MENASHA — In this morning's mail, some 2,100 residents and property owners in the Town of Menasha found a letter from town officials. It wasn't a tax statement, but an outline of tax dollars at work.

The letter, the first of a seven-part series to inform the citizenry of the facilities and advantages of living in the town, was the product of a publicity-minded group called the Citizens Committee for the Town of Menasha.

This advisory unit, unique for townships in Wisconsin, was organized a year ago to assist the part-time, three-man town board with decisions which face an urban community.

In the course of six years, the town has experienced a 52 per cent increase in population to the 1966 estimate of 8,367. New industry has brought the equalized evaluation up to $75 million this year.

"This is an urban town with urban problems," Veldor A. Kopitzke, the committee founder, said. "If the government is to function effectively without full-time personnel, it needs help."

Kopitzke, an economics professor at the Fox Valley University Center and Wisconsin State University - Oshkosh, saw the need for changes in town government when he moved to the town in 1959.

He helped form a group to promote candidates for town offices and promote communication between the board and the citizens.

Important Link

For five years the informal group provided an important link between the public and the town government.

In January, 1965, Clerk Robert Jacobs and Kopitzke called an open meeting to discuss the introduction of the water system in the town. The meeting drew a number of interested townsmen and the response led Kopitzke to form the Citizens Committee.

At the present time, some 27 persons — lawyers, engineers, farmers and laborers — meet on the first Monday of each month to study new proposals needed by the growing town.

The committee is headed by James Greiner and Kopitzke and has three subcommittee chairmen — James Hallinan, public relations; Kenneth Voiss, town planning, and Herbert C. Holtz, industrial promotion.

Operates Independently

The group operates independently from the town board and serves only in an advisory capacity. But the minutes from meetings of both groups are interchanged and often representatives sit in on each other's discussions.

Besides promotion of the water system, which is expected to be completed this June, the committee prepared the full-page advertisement answering the City of Menasha's charges last July in the Twin City News-Record.

The group, under the direction of Greiner, is presently working on the six other letters to the townsmen which will be mailed on a monthly basis. Other communications are planned after the series is completed.

Proposals under study include placing town officials on a salary scale instead of the present per diem basis. This will be presented at the annual town meeting in April. The group has also been considering an industrial park for the town and is studying the traffic problem on State 47.

A brochure describing the advantages the town has to offer is also in the planning stages.

As the town continues to grow, the group, described as a "chamber of commerce-type organization" by Kopitzke, will take on added duties. "After all, we all benefit from an effective town board," Kopitzke said.

duties," charged Lorge, and "has failed to adhere to the provisions" of the law which states that the state policy is to make educational opportunities broad throughout the state and educationally and economically feasible to all students."

Lorge said, "The Green Bay University proposal is so remote that it even surprised many Brown County residents."

Build New Roads

He added that new roads would have to be built to "make this site more accessible to the surrounding area," adding that the site will have to be served with a "Towerview Drive including a high level bridge which will have to be built across the Fox River north of Green Bay."

Lorge accused the Site Selection Committee of carrying out its task "without any real plan." He noted that at public criteria hearings the committee included Neenah-Menasha and parts of Waupaca County in the area to be served.

Then, in the committee's report in finding "only one site," it said that if Neenah Menasha were counted, an Outagamie County site would be more feasible for the majority of commuting students, Lorge noted.

He charged the committee with inconsistency by noting that it decided a Green Bay site would "better serve the region from a commuting standpoint" since Neenah and Menasha were so close to Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

"Such inconsistent statements by a committee that violates its own ground rules leaves the taxpayers of this state and parents and students wondering just what type of leadership we have on our so-called educational steering committees," Lorge commented.

Waupaca Beltline Bids Amount to $1,140,313

Two Rivers Firm Submits Low Offer; Work On 7-Mile Stretch Set for Early Summer

WAUPACA — Road construction totaling more than $1 million dollars is expected to be started early this summer on the Waupara beltline and two access streets into the city.

The State Highway Commission received five bids from construction firms for the project with the Streu Construction Co. of Two Rivers the lowest with an offer of $1,140,313.

The low bid was about $100,000 more than previous estimates.

The two-lane, five-mile beltline, which was graded last year, will be surfaced with concrete, and when work is completed in late summer, traffic on U.S. 10 will be routed around Waupaca.

Access Streets

The two access or interchange streets — Churchill and W. Fulton streets — will receive curb and gutter and will be resurfaced.

A pre-construction meeting will be held in Madison in the near future with construction officials and Iver Oerter, Waupaca city engineer, to decide on the starting date for the project.

The city will pay 15 per cent of the total cost of the work on access streets.

The beltline will remain closed until construction is completed but vehicles will be able to use the two interchange streets throughout the construction period. The two routes, State 49 and State 54, contain an additional two miles to bring the total project up to seven miles.

Bids Total $6.2 Million

The Waupaca projects are included in road construction programs amounting to more than $6,283,551, according to bids received by the State Highway Commission today.

The bids will be reviewed by the commission before contracts are signed.

Wage Rates Reflect Organized Labor Gains

Appleton Board of Public Works Adopts Schedule; Bues Questions Handling

Gains made by organized labor in the Fox Cities the past year were reflected Tuesday in prevailing wage rates adopted by the Appleton Board of Public Works in compliance with state law.

The board took its action over the objection of Public Works Director Robert W. Bues who questioned how the matter was being handled.

Bues earlier had called attention of city officials to a new law which spells out the procedure for setting rates for municipal projects.

At the time, Bues said, it was his understanding the city attorney and city clerk would check into the new statute.

Consult Magazine

"I had expected a legal opinion but all I got from the city attorney was the advice to consult the League of Wisconsin Municipality's monthly magazine which carried an article on the subject," Bues declared.

City Atty. Frederick E. Froehlich said the article gave a full explanation of the procedure to be followed in complying with the wage rate law.

The board had a list of wage rates submitted Feb. 24 to the city clerk by Willard Raatz, president of the Appleton Building and Construction Trades Council.

Several union representatives attending the meeting vouched for their accuracy.

Check Long List

However, Bues felt the long list should be checked before being adopted by the city. He said no one apparently reviewed them.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell brought discussion to a head when he asked Froehlich whether the rates submitted were in compliance with the law. Froehlich said they were and made the motion to have them established as submitted.

The rates, covering laborers in various trades, become effective April 1. A copy of the prevailing rates in this area will also be sent to the State Industrial Commission according to statute.

"If there should be any problem," Mitchell said, "We still have time to make the necessary amendments before the effective date."

Court Action

Under the minimum wage scales, firms contracted for municipal building construction, utility, street, curb and gutter work, will have to comply or face court action.

Seasonal work is involved. Minimum rates for laborers for street, curb and gutter work range from $3.47 to $4.20 per hour.

Operating engineers' wage rates on building and utility construction vary from $3.74 to $4.54 an hour.

Salaries for building trades craftsmen have a range of $3.17 to $5.65, the latter paid a boiler maker general foreman.

Building-Construction

Scale of laborers' rates for building and construction is $3.47 to $3.67 per hour.

In some categories, requiring men to perform high work in excess of 50 feet, an additional 15 cents per hour is tacked on to the minimum scale.

Pay for watchmen ranges generally from $3.05 to $3.22 hourly.

The flagman, directing traffic at street projects, will receive a minimum $3.47 per hour equal to $138.80 per 40-hour week.

CAB Ruling Final Chapter In Port Rift

passenger seats we require. If business, industry and the citizens of the Fox Cities support Air Wisconsin, our airport eventually will be boarding more passengers than the Oshkosh airport.

"When this happens," Ponath said, "we will have shown the CAB that it has been wrong down the line. Then, whether Appleton or Oshkosh want it or not, the CAB will be compelled to take a new look at the regional airport situation."

In announcing its decision today, the CAB said the petitions by Outagamie and Appleton "were tantamount to requests for reconsideration" of the original decision of Nov. 24, 1964, and the board's denial of a petition for reconsideration on Jan. 22, 1965.

Merit Alone

"In any event," Monday's CAB ruling said, "the board would have denied the petitions on their merit alone. The decision was based upon public convenience and necessity."

Both North Central and Winnebago County had filed opposing motions to the Outagamie and Appleton petitions.

In its opposing motion, North Central stressed what an important market the "Appleton market" is to its business and argued that, on the basis of economics, the airline needs to serve Appleton to make route 86 profitable.

"North Central's statement," John Conway, vice president of Air Wisconsin, said today, "was simply a reiteration of what we contended throughout the whole proceedings; it was very ironic."

Ponath added, "I'm kind of glad it's all over, because it has been an agonizing procedure. But," he said, "time will prove that the CAB was in error."

Woman Hospitalized After She Collapses

Mrs. Elizabeth Grubaugh, 72, 1611 N. Clark St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Larry's Ambulance about 10 p.m. Tuesday after she collapsed at the Salvation Army Headquarters, 130 E. North St.

Mrs. Grubaugh remained in the hospital today.

Ex-Instructor, Engineer Dies At New London

David Blissett, 71, Stricken During Masonic Meeting

NEW LONDON — David O. Blissett, 71, 302 W. Beacon Ave., died of an apparent heart attack about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday while attending a meeting at the Masonic Temple.

New London firemen were called to the scene, but respiration efforts failed.

Blissett taught in the New London School system for two years, from 1917 to 1919, and later joined Edison Wood Product Co. where he became the firm's industrial engineer. He held the post for 14 years before leaving to teach school at Shawano.

After leaving the Shawano teaching job he held engineering positions with firms at Gillett and Coleman before retiring.

Blissett was born June 9, 1894, in Oshkosh, and came to New London after being graduated from Oshkosh Normal School in 1917.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Thursday at the First Congregational Church with burial in the Floral Hills Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Cline and Hanson Funeral Home after 5 p.m. today.

Survivors are the widow, one son, two daughters, and four grandchildren.

Lawrence Schedules Two One-Acts

Two student directed one-act plays, "The Dock Brief," and "In a Cold Hotel," will be presented on Thursday and Friday in the Lawrence University Experimental Theatre. The performances are open to the public. Curtain time is 7 p.m.

Directing "The Dock Brief" is Phillip Shallat, Madison, a Lawrence senior. "In a Cold Hotel" is directed by William Phillips, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, a junior. Both are members of a play directing class taught by F. Theodore Cloak, professor and chairman of the university department of theatre and drama.

"The Dock Brief" is the second one-act by playwright John Mortimer being presented in the eight-play series. It involves an ironic twist in a lawyer's relationship with his client. Morgenhall, the lawyer, is given the job of defending Fowle, a man accused of murdering his wife. The client insists that he killed her simply because she was too humorous and had the insidious habit of punning, while Morgenhall struggles to invent a believable defense.

Two Roles

The two roles are played by actors Jeffrey Jones, Buffalo, N.Y., and James Lannon, New York City.

"In a Cold Hotel" is the perplexing drama of an encounter between a vaudeville tramp who is "a dirty old man" and his 19-year old son. They meet for the first time when the boy walks into the tramp's room in a cheap hotel. Ben Maddow's play presents a pathetic picture of the kind of love found even in so tragic a circumstance.

The cast includes Edward Logelin, Chicago, David Chambers, St. Louis, and Linda Larson, Evanston, Ill.

the National Defense Education Act, and $35,000 for industrial arts equipment, of which the district will receive 50 per cent reimbursement under the Vocational School Act.

Equipment Bids

Three bids were received on equipment for the biology and art rooms. Low bid of $14,990 was awarded to School Interiors Co.

Board members approved an industrial arts program at the high school and will expand its scope over the next three years. General metals will be introduced in 1966-67, a more advanced general metals and possibly an electronics course, if interest warrants, will be added in 1967-68 and the 1968-69 school year will see the introduction of small motors, fluid power, electronics and three general metals courses.

Steinhilber Attacks Federal 'Tax-Wasters'

CEDARBURG — "Unjustified and ill-conceived" are administration suggestions of more federal tax increases, Jack Steinhilber, candidate for the Republican endorsement for Sixth District congressman, charged at the Ozaukee County Republican caucus here Monday night.

The Oshkosh attorney said, "It ill behooves this administration to suggest more sacrifices from the taxpayer until the tax-wasters in Washington tighten their belts. If more revenue is needed to finance the Viet Nam war, let's stop wasting it on programs such as subsidies for artists and poets, foreign aid to the likes of Nasser and rent subsidies for those who can afford to pay their own rent.

"This administration talks about 'guidelines' for wages and prices to fight inflation, when the biggest reason for higher prices is unbalanced federal budgets, year after year, due to administration extravagance. As Americans try to pay their taxes and still make ends meet in their family budgets with their hard-earned dollars, it's high time the government put's some 'guidelines' on runaway federal spending," Steinhilber stressed.

Top Actress Is Danny's Special Guest

BY TV SCOUT

8-10—Channels 2-7-12 — The Danny Kaye Show, with guests Joanne Woodward and Robert Goulet, has a good time ribbing shows from other networks. Some brisk comedy sketches revolve around titles like, "The Man Who Runs Around Scared a Lot," "A Man Called Shenandopey" and "Run From Your Wife." Miss Woodward (in her first TV appearance in seven years) is also sport enough to rib her own films. But the topper of the evening is when Joanne and Goulet join their host in "King Cotton," a sketch which gingerly spoofs "Old South" characters. (Color)

6:30-7—Channels 11-6-9 — Cesar Romero is back again to play his squealing "clown prince of crime," The Joker on Batman. He is particularly villainous this time, trying to undermine the young minds of Gotham City students. Every time the kids drop a nickel in a slot machine out roll silver dollars. Who needs to study with such bonanzas? Aiding The Joker is Donna Loren, a frisky cheerleader. (Color)

6:30-8—Channel 5 — One Spring Like Long Ago" is particularly inviting for Western buffs on The Virginian. Eduard Franz plays an Indian chief who believes that the Buffalo will once again roam the plains and hills of his beloved west. (Color)

7:30-8 Channels 11-6-9—Blue Light once again puts the squeeze on it's double agent hero David March. (Robert Goulet) This time he is caught between the Germans and the Russians. What makes it particularly hectic is that he has to contend with a gorgeous Soviet spy — the kind of girl it's hard to say "no" to. (Color)

8-9—Channels 4-5 — "Wind Fever" on Bob Hope Presents is a palatable drama, but it isn't particularly inventive. William Shatner plays a dedicated tropics doctor out to find a cure for a pesky fever. When one of his patients dies, Shatner's jungle hospital turns into a "courtroom." (Color)

8:30-9 Channels 2-7-12—You don't have to be Jewish to enjoy The Dick Van Dyke Show. In this funny outing, Buddy is particularly amusing, secretly studying for his long overdue barmitzvah (the Jewish ceremony which observes a youth's entrance into manhood).

9-10—Channels 11-6-9 — Uta Hagen, one of Broadway's better actresses, makes a rare television appearance, on The Long, Hot Summer. She plays an old but attractive skeleton from Will Varner's past. Expect plenty of fireworks here, as Miss Hagen makes the most of her role, slipping around Frenchmen's Bend for her first visit in 20 years.

9-10—Channels 4-5—"The Conquest of Maude Murdock" provides another opportunity for I Spy's volatile sleuths, Robert Culp and Bill Cosby, to masquerade. This time they are snooping around Mexico City, wondering just what Jeanette Nolan, a flamboyant Oklahoma widow is up to. (Color)

Believe It or Not, These two persons are not two persons at all. They is one and the same, by Jingo! At the right is Jim McGuinn, an accomplished artist with guitar and banjo, as he appeared several years ago while lead accompanist for the Chad Mitchell Trio. At left is how McGuinn looks today, as leader of The Byrds, popular Columbia Records artists who will be appearing in 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. shows at the Lawrence University Memorial Chapel Monday night.

'Mr. Tambourine Man' Start of Folk-Rock

Top-Flight Byrds, America's Answer To Beatles, Play in Appleton Monday

BY JINGO

It was one year ago this month that Columbia Records quietly released a song titled "Mr. Tambourine Man," written by Bob Dylan, poet laureate of folk-rock music.

Prior to the release of "Mr. Tambourine Man," folk-rock had made a relatively small impact on popular music. Before 1965 had ended, however, Dylanish music was found on hit charts in abundance and hardly could an album be found without "Mr. Tambourine Man" or a song of that ilk.

The young men who first recorded "Mr. Tambourine Man" were virtual unknowns in March, 1965, but now, one year later, they are considered America's answer to the Beatles.

They call themselves the Byrds. The name brings to mind a paraphrasing of a rule of spelling: "Change the 'i' to 'y' and add millions of fans." Group leader Jim McGuinn insisted that the type of music they played belonged to the world of the jet engine. He wanted the music to soar, to fly. Thus, the Birds, then Byrds. By changing one letter, the group achieved an unusual carrying device.

Coming to Appleton

Unlike too many of today's rock groups, the Byrds, who will appear Monday at Lawrence University, are adept musicians and can even sing well.

McGuinn, pictured on this page in a "before and after" shot, was originally the lead guitarist for Bobby Darin and later the Chad Mitchell Trio. Jingo witnessed McGuinn when he was with the Mitchell group and can attest to his instrumental abilities. He is also lead guitarist for the Byrds.

Gene Clark, who plays harmonica and tambourine, was formerly a member of the New Christy Minstrels.

Rhythm guitarist David Crosby, before joining the Byrds, had been a solo singer-guitarist for five years in folk music clubs around the country.

The other members of the group are Chris Hillman, bass and mandolin, and Mike Clark, drummer. Hillman is at home with John Coltrane-type jazz or Bluegrass music. Drummer Clark has been the girls' favorite on tours.

The Byrds, joined together in the summer of 1964, were signed to a Columbia contract in September of that year. Nothing much happened until "Mr. Tambourine Man," which slipped quietly, at first, onto the hit charts of Los Angeles, not a particularly difficult feat for a group based in that city. The first indication that the quintet had something big happened in Miami. Reports leaked back to California that top popular radio outlets there were airing "Mr. Tambourine Man" every 20 minutes.

Then, suddenly, the song broke nationally and before it was through had sold enough to be listed as one of the top 10 singles of 1965. The Byrds even became the first Yanks since Elvis Presley to top the British charts.

The group then had one hit, but what would it do for a follow-up? The boys recorded "All I Really Want to Do," but the version by Cher, of Sonny and Cher, was the big seller.

Determined to prove their "Tambourine" success was not a fluke, the Byrds released "Turn! Turn! Turn!," the lyrics of which were drawn from the Bible (Book of Ecclesiastes). It too attained No. 1 and the Byrds were established.

Following their up and down pattern, however, the group has not met with great success on its latest single, "It Won't Be Wrong" and "Set You Free This Time."

The young men have also had two hit albums, both of which currently are on the charts, based on their big singles.

Perhaps trying too hard to appear as individualists, the Byrds have had some rough times while on tour.

Adorned with long, long hair and dressed in a variety of unusual manners, the group on one occasion attempted to enter the dining room of a top hotel barefoot. Asked to return to their rooms and get shoes, the quint came back with cowboy boots, which caused the manager to declare he would never allow another rock group to stay at his lodging. Such is the way of popular music today.

Appearing with the Byrds will be Chicago singer Dave Selberg, who will present a 30-minute show. The Byrds are scheduled to be on stage for 45 minutes.

The Monday Lawrence appearance will feature two shows — 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. — at the Memorial Chapel.

Congress Unwilling To Okay Aid Cuts In Campaign Period

BY JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — An election year Congress is showing little willingness to go along with President Johnson's proposed cuts in education and school lunch programs.

Johnson sent a message on health and education to Congress Tuesday and won praise for the goals he set of good health and education for all. But he also gave plenty of notice he is in for a fight if he insists on certain economies.

In particular congressional ire has been aroused by the administration's intention to cut $216 million in funds for schools in areas of federal impact, $101 million from the school milk and lunch programs and $12 million from land grant college funds.

'Forget Cuts'

"The President might as well forget any cuts in the impact and school milk programs," said Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee after the message was read to Congress.

"Speaking for my colleagues in the House," said Powell, "the President isn't running this year but we are."

Similar views have been sounded in the Senate almost daily since Johnson's intentions were outlined in his budget message last month.

Nine senators sharply attacked the proposed cutbacks in lunch and milk programs Tuesday during the initial Senate hearing on the Agriculture Department's new $7 billion annual appropriation.

The administration's move was defended by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman as aimed at expanding the free lunch and milk programs for "millions of school kids who need it but can't pay for it."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., asked if the federal government was trying "to set up some kind of a caste system," and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., added that "means tests" would be humiliating to needy children and their families.

Freeman told the Agriculture Committee members that school officials would provide the needy children with a token or ticket to get free milk or lunch just as it's done now.

"There's been a lot of loose talk about means tests," he said.

Powell's committee will play a decisive role in determining what kind of school legislation Johnson gets and if he has his way, the cost would go up by at least $700 million over administration proposals.

Powell has told the administration he wants faster action on extending the reach of the Elementary and Secondary School Act by raising from $2,000 to $3,000 the income factor on which most of the money is distributed.

Johnson has proposed making the change in fiscal 1968 but Powell said he wants it to take effect in fiscal 1967 which begins July 1. It would boost the cost of the act, which was passed last year, by $375 million.

The Father and Wife of Charles Schmid 23, who was found guilty Tuesday of killing two teen age Tucson girls, left the courtroom in Tucson in tears after Schmid was ordered to die in the gas chamber. Astronaut Scott To Help Create Space Tool Kit

Experiments During 'Stroll' Will Make Him First Mechanic

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — When astronaut David R. Scott leaves the Gemini 8 capsule for a stroll in space in mid-March, he will use a power tool that may qualify him as the first space mechanic.

Scott, an Air Force major, will work with the device for only about 10 minutes of his planned 2½ hour excursion. But the nuts and bolts experiment will help develop tool kits for future astronauts.

Details of the experiment were disclosed today at a conference on space maintenance and extravehicular activity — space walks.

Scott and civilian Neil A. Armstrong are to ride Gemini 8 up for a three-day trip on March 15. During the first day, they are to chase and link up with an orbiting Agena satellite.

Scott is to take his record space walk on the second day.

Use Handrails

Shortly after leaving the capsule more than 100 miles above the earth, Scott — at the end of a 25 foot tether — will work his way along the side of the space craft with the help of handrails. He will open a compartment in which is stored the power tool with a regular hand wrench and a metal plate fastened with four bolts. The power tool, superficially resembles the electrically operated devices that mechanics use to remove lugs when changing an automobile tire. But inside it has the complexity of a James Bond device.

It weighs about eight pounds but, like Scott, will be weightless in space. It is 10½ inches long and 9 inches high and is powered by batteries.

A man using a normal wrench in weightless space would spin like a top because of the reverse action created from a force exerted in twisting on a bolt.

The power tool, designed by the Martin Co. for the Air Force Aeropropulsion Laboratory, has 99.5 per cent less reactive force than a comparable power wrench used on earth.

This has been done through an arrangement of bearings, rings and gears, plus a counter rotating barrel. The result is that the reaction is transferred back to the bolt being tightened rather than to the astronaut.

Before opening the compartment, Scott will use a hook-like device to attach his right knee to a spacecraft handrail. Then he will use the power tool to loosen the four bolts in the metal plate.

He will turn the plate over and tighten the bolts, one of which is instrumented to record the amount of force used. He will repeat the exercise using the regular wrench. Then he will do it again after releasing his knee from the fastened position.

Without the knee anchored, Scott should spin slightly while using the regular tool. If so he will stop before he becomes disoriented.

To record his actions, Scott will mount a mouse camera on the side of the spacecraft.

Constitutional Limits Sought on Confessions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty seven states have asked the Supreme Court not to put new constitutional restrictions on police station confessions made in the absence of a lawyer.

This plea was made Monday by Telford Taylor, a Columbia University law professor, as the court launched a full-blown review of police suspects' rights.

The Fifth Amendment should not be read as requiring a counsel be present when confessions are taken,' Taylor said for the 27 states.

And he went on, if the court should make some new rule governing prosecutors' use of such confessions the rule should not be made retroactive.

Five Cases

The 27 states are being heard through Taylor as "a friend of the court" as the justices study five confession cases that variously raise the right to counsel issue.

Their position reflects, in part, widespread concern that law enforcement might suffer if the court gives broad application to its 1964 Escobedo ruling which for the first time extended the right to counsel to a suspect in a police station.

The five cases represent a sampling of hundreds of legal disputes that followed in the decision's wake and give the justices an opportunity to clarify their views.

In his brief, Taylor who was chief prosecutor at the Nuremberg trial of World War II German war criminals, said that a general requirement that counsel be present at the prearraignment stage could have two consequences, "in unpredictable proportions".

Eliminates Interrogation

The virtual elimination of prearraignment interrogation or the large scale installation of defense counsel at police stations.

'Neither professional nor general public concepts of fairness warrant the constitutional requirement of such fundamental changes in prearraignment procedures," Taylor said.

At the same time, Taylor said new rules governing confessions are not "necessarily unwise." However, he said they are more appropriately a matter of legislative and judicial policy.

East German Appeal for U.N. Membership Likely to Fail

Only Two Affirmative Votes Expected for Communist Nation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Communist members of the U.N. Security Council are expected to press for quick action on East Germany's bid for U.N. membership but defeat of the application is considered certain.

Polish Ambassador Bohdan Lewandowski delivered the application from East German Chief of State Walter Ulbricht to Secretary-General U. Thant Tuesday. It was accompanied by a memorandum from the East German Foreign Ministry and a pledge from Ulbricht that the East German government would adhere to obligations of the U.N. Charter.

A U.S. spokesman promptly restated the long standing position taken by the United States, Britain and France — the three Western occupation powers for Germany — that the West German government "is the only German government freely and legitimately constituted and therefore entitled to speak for the German people in international affairs."

Occupation Zone

The three Western allies contend that East Germany is not a sovereign state but an occupation zone. As such it is ineligible for U.N. membership.

For admission to the United Nations, East Germany would have to win:

—Recommendation of the 15-nation council, which requires nine affirmative votes with none of the five permanent members casting a veto.

—Ratification by two-thirds of the 117 nation General Assembly.

Diplomats said the East Germans could be sure of only two affirmative votes in the council, the Soviet Union and Communist Bulgaria.

In the memorandum accompanying its application, East Germany reportedly suggested that West Germany also be admitted to the United Nations as a move toward "confederation" between the two. However, West Germany was not expected to apply for membership because this might prejudice its case for German reunification.

Observer Missions

West Germany has an observer mission at the United Nations and has made heavy financial contributions to U.N. programs. East Germany has no representation here.

In Bonn, a spokesman for West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said his government was confident the East German application would be rejected.

Divided nations have never won admittance to the United Nations. Soviet vetoes killed applications from South Korea and South Viet Nam. North Korea and North Viet Nam have never mustered enough votes to gain recommendation for admission.

Helicopter Mishap Injures 2 State Men

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Sheboygan men in New York on a business trip sustained slight injuries Tuesday when two rotor blades of the helicopter they were in snapped and knifed into the fuselage.

Leslie Quasius 55, and Robert Honold, 56, were preparing to take off for a flight from Kennedy Airport into mid-town Manhattan when the accident happened.

Quasius suffered a bruised head from flying debris and Horold suffered a nose cut. Both were treated at the scene.

The two men said they had just arrived in New York and thought we would enjoy a new experience by flying into Manhattan.

Merrill School Plans to Become Junior College

MERRILL (AP)—Plans for a junior College to open in the fall of 1968 have been announced here by the Sisters of the Holy Cross. The college would be non-denominational and co-educational.

Facilities presently used for a girl's high school would be utilized for the college. The 135 student high school would be phased out over the next two years.

The Holy Cross Sisters whose motherhouse is in Switzerland maintain a hospital at Merrill as well as the order's United States headquarters. The order is located in Wisconsin, North Dakota, Ohio, Louisiana and Illinois and are active in both the teaching and hospital fields.

The school would offer a full liberal arts program.

Fire Destroys Barn, Livestock at Adell

ADELL, Wis. (AP)—A fire at the David Stange farm near the Sheboygan County community early today destroyed a barn, three heifers, 600 bales of straw, 1,200 bales of hay, a farm wagon and numerous hand tools.

Cause of the blaze and the amount of loss were not determined immediately. The blaze was fought by firemen from Batavia.

7,693 Workers in State Found to Have Been Getting Too Little Pay

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Intensive wage and hour investigations by the Labor Department revealed $1,203,466 in minimum wage and overtime underpayments due to 7,693 workers in Wisconsin during 1965.

Clarence B. Frazier, field office supervisor in eastern Wisconsin, said the underpayments were detected as a result of 978 investigations.

Distribution of Low-Silver Half Dollars to Start Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those new half dollars — only 40 per cent silver but still bearing the likeness of President John F. Kennedy — are expected to begin flowing into American hands within the next two weeks.

"We're trying to get them out as soon as possible," Robert A. Wallace, assistant secretary of the Treasury, said today. "We hope to begin circulating them in about a week or two."

Wallace, whose jurisdiction includes the U.S. Mint, is hopeful the new coins won't wind up the same way as the Kennedy half dollars containing 90 per cent silver which the Treasury began minting in 1964. In fact he hopes the new halves will bring the older ones out of hiding.

Through last Monday, 409,085,450 of the original Kennedy half dollars had been minted but despite efforts of the Federal Reserve System to place them in circulation they have virtually disappeared.

Why?

Only theories can be advanced, Wallace said, and the best one is that they've become mementoes of the late president. Many — exact numbers are unknown — have gone overseas, he added.

Wallace said this is an emotional rather than a rational response.

The Kennedy half dollar will be the "coin of the realm" for at least 25 years, he said. Existing law bars any change in coin design for at least 25 years and then only by an act of Congress.

Vending Machines

Miss Eva Adams, director of the mint, said use of half dollars in change and vending machines also has contributed to increased demand.

Although minting of Kennedy half dollars containing 90 per cent silver will cease when the new coins begin circulating, the Treasury feels enough of the original coins will be minted to keep them from becoming collectors' items.

With the exception of half dollars, the Treasury thinks the acute coin shortage is over.

"Except for half dollars, we're in better shape now on other coins than during any comparable period in the last 10 years," Wallace said.

Panel to Get Site Recommendation

Sub-Committee to Study Report On Northeastern UW Campus

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A committee of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE) will ponder the proposal to locate the new northeastern Wisconsin University of Wisconsin branch at Green Bay when it meets here next Tuesday morning.

The Fox Cities Education Committee Monday sent a letter to Gov. Warren Knowles and the CCHE protesting the site recommendation.

Assemblyman Harold Froehlich (R-Appleton) Tuesday urged the Fox Cities group to seek an injunction to halt further action on the site selection. Sen. Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek) had made the suggestion at a meeting of the Fox Cities group Monday.

To Get Report

The committee, headed by Robert L. Pierce of Menomonie, will have before it the report of the special statutory site selection committee which last week recommended the Shorewood location east of Green Bay, and turned down other suggested sites, including those advanced by Outagamie County civic groups.

The issue will be before the full Coordinating Committee at its quarterly meeting here two days later, on March 10. Approval of the CCHE, the State Building Commission, and Knowles is required to make the site selection effective.

Normally the CCHE ratifies the reports of its sub-committees.

Pierce is a veteran member of the Board of Regents of State Colleges, which supervises the state university system which fought unsuccessfully with the University of Wisconsin administration for administrative jurisdiction of the new northeastern school when the enabling act was before the Legislature last year.

Heavy Schedule

The CCHE will have a heavy schedule of issues before it when it meets next week.

Among other major policy reports will be those of other sub-committees on the issue of non resident student limitations for the University of Wisconsin and the state universities summer plant utilization policy and space guidelines for the institutional systems. There will also be a report on a proposal for the establishment of a two year college campus at Fond du Lac as a branch of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

Schlitz Asks To Reopen Trust Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. of Milwaukee Tuesday renewed its motion to reopen the government's anti-trust trial against it.

The case is now under submission.

Schlitz also asked for removal of the court order restraining the company from voting its shares of John Labatt Ltd. of Canada.

Schlitz based its motion on the announced intent of a Labatt subsidiary — General Brewing Corp. of San Francisco — to sell its Azusa, Calif., brewery to the Miller Brewing Co. of Milwaukee.

Schlitz contended the proposed sale has an effect upon General Brewing's status as a competitor in California and bears on the basic issue of the antitrust case against Schlitz.

The government has asked that Schlitz be divested of its controlling interest in Labatt and its control of the Burgermeister Brewing Co. of San Francisco.

The government's contention was that Labatt's control of General Brewing and Schlitz' interest in Burgermeister gave it an unfair competitive position in the western beer market in violation of the Clayton antitrust act.

Youth Sues President To Abolish Draft, Reports for Induction

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A young man who has sued President Johnson to abolish the draft quietly entered military service Tuesday.

David A. Baumann, 19, of Columbia, Pa., arrived at Lancaster's Selective Service office with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Baumann.

The youth answered a roll call and boarded one of three buses with eight other draftees and 98 pre-draftees.

Baumann, valedictorian of his 1964 high school class, has filed suit against President Johnson in the second District Court of New York to abolish the draft.

To Your Good Health

'Sugarless Sweets' Can Add Some Calories

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D

Dear Dr Molner We have read quite a bit about diabetes since my husband developed it, but still don't know just how effective the sugar-free foods are in a diet, or how much of them are safe to consume

My husband enjoys at least three diabetic candy bars a day, fruit pies with artificial sweet

ener, cookies, etc pretty much in the same quantities a normal person does He also likes fat in his meat Are these foods to be eaten in the minimum amount or can one indulge? He is taking Orinase — V P

Diet is the keystone of treatment for diabetes Use of various diabetes pills doesn't mean that diet can can be ignored The patient taking insulin or the pills must abide by a strict diet

Yet, many people with diabetes can control the disease without medication if they adhere to a correct diet (No I don't mean that anyone taking either insulin or oral medications should of his own accord stop them and try to get along on diet alone That is extremely dangerous But if he will first get his diet in line the doctor then may be able to reduce or even eliminate medication in mild cases)

You don't tell me Mrs V P, how much your husband weighs but I suspect that he is heavy — and fat diabetics can benefit most from diet

Saying that he eats quantities of diabetic sweets that a "normal" person does isn't very descriptive Three regular candy bars a day plus pies and cookies would be considered a rather large intake of sweets by many without diabetes

Remember that even though there is no sugar as such in these special sweets, they are apt to contain more calories and more hidden sugar of another type than one realizes And fat meat is very high in calories, so if, as I infer, your husband is overweight, he ought by all means to reduce both fats and confections It isn't sugar alone that bothers a diabetic, but total calories, since the body converts into sugar many foods which we do not regard as sweet to the taste Nothing will take the place of a reliable scale to reveal whether a diabetic is eating too much

Don't ask me to lay down an exact diet, because each patient is different and should have a diet that fits him If your doctor does not have time to work this out in detail, there are other places to get help Diabetes associations, health departments, Visiting Nurse Association, and most hospitals have classes conducted by dieticians to help diabetics Ask your doctor to refer you to such a course because I strongly suspect that your husband will be much better off if he'll get (and follow) such advice

Dear Dr Molner After I broke up with a girl in 1963 she became ill with mononucleosis Last year I met a wonderful girl, and I hope it is only coincidence that after six months she got a mild case of it Is there a possibility that I am a carrier of this dread disease? — R J K

It isn't a dread disease although it's a frightful nuisance at times No you aren't a carrier, because the carrier state lasts only during the acute phase of illness

Dear Dr Molner My menstrual period is three weeks late and I have made an appointment to see my doctor Will he be able to tell if I am pregnant? I don't want to waste his time or mine — Mrs N R

It is difficult to be sure of pregnancy that early by physical examination although special tests can give a definite answer This early visit is not a waste of time however The sooner prenatal care begins the safer for both mother and baby

The girl who never grows up lacks discipline

True — False—

True Dr Ellen Birchall defines the emotionally immature woman as lacking to one degree or another in the self disciplines that are essential in the achievement of a sense of responsibility They may inflict pain on others without knowing or caring Equally important they often injure themselves because of their inability to see that an act or an attitude is harmful" We would add that the immature girl has yet to develop the ability to love a discipline of great importance

Ensalada de Garbanzas

Vegetable Entrees

By Lillian Mackesy
POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Most families in this area . . . quite like others in the Midwest . . . can be classed as meat-and-potatoes people. Vegetables usually are served on the side and sometimes as a salad. This is a familiar food pattern . . . but it should be changed to a bit more variety.

Today's markets provide an abundance of types and varieties of vegetables from which to choose, especially for use as a main dish. There are fresh, frozen and canned vegetables. They are grown for quality of texture, color and flavor and even the home gardener pores over his seed and plant catalogues to pick the best of the year for his own garden patch. Vegetables grown commercially for canning and freezing are developed especially for good eating quality and nutritive value. Science has taken over from seed culture to harvest to make today's vegetables fit the appetite-appeal factors of color, texture and flavor.

From there on, it's up to the cook. And the smart homemaker adds to her dimension of menus by using vegetables to their fullest. It's the handling of vegetables in the home kitchen that determines whether the quality carefully controlled by grower and processor is carried to the dinner table. Most home economists seem to agree that more people would eat more vegetables with enjoyment if they were always cooked so as to present the vegetables at their best . . . at the peak of their quality. To prove a point, today's recipes center for the most part on main-dish vegetables . . . dishes which can stand alone as an entree without meat.

When cooking fresh vegetables, use as little water as necessary to keep them from scorching (about one-fourth inch in the pan). Bring the water to a boil, add the vegetables, bring quickly to a boil again, then lower heat to maintain a slow, steady boil.

TO KEEP COLOR

To preserve color in green vegetables, leave the cover off the pan for the first five minutes, then cover the pan for the rest of the cooking period. Cook vegetables with thin green leaves, such as spinach, with just the moisture clinging to the leaves.

Girl Scouting to Mark 54th Year

Saturday will be the fifty-fourth anniversary of the first Girl Scout meeting held in the United States. That first troop was organized in Savannah, Ga., by Juliette Gordon Low, who founded the movement in this country.

Since that date, more than 20 million girls have passed through the ranks of scouts, whose members range in age from seven to seventeen.

6,000 Area Scouts

Today the national membership of this voluntary, community-supported organization totals over three million, with 6,000 girls comprising the Fox River Area Council alone.

Fellowship isn't the only purpose of the organization. Brownies, intermediate, senior and mariner scouts all participate in activities to increase their skills, learn their abilities and talents, build their awareness of potentials and their self-confidence and instill the values necessary to future citizens of our challenging and rapidly-changing world.

Leaders Indispensable

Adults — neighbors and relatives of Girl Scouts — contribute their time, interest and abilities to the vigor of the scouting movement. By their example the girls receive an appreciation of honor, independence and curiosity. Each scout grows to know the rights and responsibilities expected of each, valuable and contributing member of every community.

Wonderful Way to Watch Your Weight

Guests always are intrigued by the unusual. Add to it the lure of low calories and success is imminent. This combination of steak and plums, plus the menu in weight-watching tradition can be served with pride at a dinner party

The recipe is called Plum Tinkers because the meat and fruit on a skewer resemble the famous toy of the same name for both weight watchers and people on restricted diets for health. The low-calorie canned plums add allure to the dish with their rich color and taste

The lean flank steak called for in the recipe is ideal

CALORIE COUNTDOWN

Although the dish is low in calories — 200 per serving — it is lavish and plum elegant

Prepare a garnish for the platter by cutting a lime vertically from blossom end to stem end. Turn the flat side down and pink with a sharp knife to separate halves. Arrange on skewers half limes and canned plums alternately.

Yoghurt or cottage cheese may be served in a bowl with sprigs of watercress for color.

Complete the menu with Beef Consomme sprinkled with onion ring, low calorie crisp bread, steamed rice, a relish dish of celery stalks and green pepper strips. Small wedges of Angel food cake, unfrosted, may be used for dessert.

PLUM TINKERS

1 flank steak about 1¼ pounds
1 teaspoon pepper
32 ounces canned low-calorie whole purple plums

½ cup juice drained from plums
4 teaspoons lime juice
2 tablespoons quick browning or soy sauce
4 ounces (½ container) yoghurt

Have butcher pound flank steak through cube steak machine (but keep steak whole) or pound it with a cube steak mallet. Rub steak with pepper, preferably fresh ground, then cut it in half for easy handling.

Combine marinade ingredients. Coat both sides of steak with marinade and roll up tightly in the direction of the grain. Skewer, placing skewers about one inch apart. Cut between skewers to make slices about one inch thick. Roll plums in marinade to coat and skewer one on each side of steak slice.

Broil using a 450-degree heat, turning once and allowing about 15 minutes in all for medium rare steak. Drain on absorbent paper. Recipe makes four servings.

The following is the calorie countdown for the menu:

Beef Consomme (1 cup, 30 calories); Plum Tinkers (200 calories per serving); Rice (½ cup, 92 calories); celery, 3 stalks, 15 calories); green pepper strips (2 small peppers or 1 medium, 30 calories); wedges of angel cake (2 inch slice, 40 calories). Total per person, 407 calories.

Appleton Woman's Gift to be on TV

Mrs. Carl W. Miller, 119 S. Story St., has been informed that some of her handiwork will be used on the kitchen set of NBC's daytime television series, "Paradise Bay." She crocheted two placemats, a small table doily and a potholder in blue and white to match the motif on the set's walls and refrigerator when she noticed that the kitchen table appeared rather bare.

Monday she received a letter telling her that her gift would be used on the show and that the items had been written into a show to be telecast at the end of this week or the beginning of next week.

Your Problems

His and Hers Girdles Not Solution to Weight Problem

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS Some women get right back to their normal weight after the children come, but unfortunately my wife put on 10 pounds with each child —and that's where Brenda is right now—twenty pounds overweight

For the past several months I have hinted that Brenda do something about the excess weight No results Last week I came right out and told her to buy a good girdle

This evening we were dressing to go out and Brenda put on a dress she hasn't been able to wear in a long time She said, "This girdle is great—look" Then she handed me a girdle and said, "This is for you, Fat so"

I thought she was kidding until she added, "You have gained more weight than I have If I m going to sacrifice comfort for looks, so can you"

I refused to wear the girdle and she's been mad ever since Who's wrong? Fighting Mad

Dear Mad: Never mind who's right and who's wrong. You're both too fat and girdles are not the answer.

Ask your doctor about a diet and suitable exercise. You'll both feel better, look better and live longer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS You are smart and I am stupid Please give me some answers My parents were strict and they brooked no nonsense My sister and I felt a quick hand if we said anything out of line We loved mother and dad but we were afraid of them I made up my mind that my children would never be afraid of me

My daughter is 13 and my son is 11 I got my wish My children are not afraid of me They also have no respect for me When I tell them to turn off the TV and do their homework they ignore me

Ten minutes ago I told my daughter to clean up her room or she couldn t go to the movies She just left for the movies and her room is a mess

Must parents breed fear in their children to make them obey? What s the answer, Ann Landers?—Flop Of A Mother

Dear Mother: I earnestly believe that a little fear is a healthy thing. Parents who try to win a popularity contest wind up with irresponsible, disrespectful kids who are a problem to themselves and to everyone else.

Children want discipline — even though they may resist it. Discipline is a special kind of love. It takes strength to be firm in the face of wheedling, begging, and arguing. But the wise parents find the courage to stand fast. And it pays off.

DEAR ANN LANDERS Last night I broke my engagement to a fellow on whom I wasted six years I kept the ring because I had bought it

The problem is this How do I let people know that I am no longer Rube's girl? When we were engaged I had my picture in the paper Would it be all right if I placed an ad in the personals section of the newspaper to let people know that our engagement is off? — New Lease On Life

Dear New Lease: Sorry but a newspaper ad to announce a broken engagement would be in poor taste. I have an alternative thought: Next to Telstar, the quickest way to pass the word is to tell two or three girl friends — "in the strictest of confidence"

When necking becomes petting watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend send for Ann Landers booklet Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long self-addressed stamped envelope

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Away, Heavy Ankle

You literally can write off a heavy ankle The more you write the more shapely it becomes Of course a special technique is required Like so

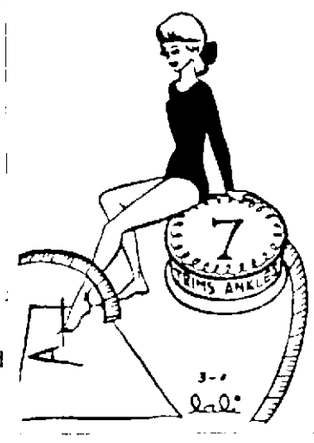

Place a large sheet of wrapping paper on the floor about 12 inches from a straight chair Next sit on the edge of the chair and insert a pencil between the big and second toes of the right foot

Now touch pencil to paper very lightly arch the ankle and write the alphabet repeating each letter five times before going on to the next Then perform with the left foot

Throughout work for maximum stretch and movement in the ankles Also try to form the letters with increasing precision The neater your foots manship the neater your ankles

And there s still another dividend The routine increases the mobile grace of your feet and legs an asset now much in demand You just must have a swinging gait to keep pace with spring s swinging (the most') shoes and stockings Otherwise you ll be learning your ABC s while other lovelies are writing their memoirs

Reducing Extra Be sure to keep the heel tips of your shoes straightened Also check your shoes for slip, they must snug your foot with nary a flip or flop When shoes are in any way out of balance, the ankle muscles develop fatty pads as compensation

Day of Recollection Centered on Mass

Understanding of the mass was the subject studied by the Outagamie County Deanery of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women at its annual Day of Recollection Sunday at Holy Angels Catholic Church, Darboy. The program was based on the historical development of the mass, beginning with the Jewish prayer service, and including the mass through Apostolic times, the Fourth Century and the Dark Ages to the present time.

The event was supervised by the Rev. Robert K. Finnegan, O. Praem., prior at St. Norbert Abbey, De Pere, a former instructor at St. Norbert College. Assisting in the 'Mass Week Program' were Frater Alan Scheible, O. Praem., director; Frater Anselm Rodia, O. Praem.; Frater Michael Antonucci, O. Praem., and Father Nicholas Rossi, O. Praem., all seminarians at St. Norbert.

Mrs. Ronald Friebel, president of Holy Angels' St. Anne Society, and her group had charge of dinner arrangements. The Rev. William Richert, host pastor, welcomed guests.

The History of the mass was delineated at the Deanery Day of Recollection Sunday at Holy Angels Catholic Church, Darboy. Above, the program was discussed by Mrs. Ronald Friebel and Mrs. Reynold Hopfensperger, both of Darboy, and the Rev. Robert Finnegan, Frater Alan Scheible, Frater Nicholas Rossi, Frater Michael Antonucci and Frater Anselm Rodia. At left, during the luncheon, are Mrs. George Schwalbach, Darboy; Miss Martha Welhouse, Kaukauna, and Mrs. William Kempen, Kimberly. Tetanus Danger Increases With Outdoor Activity

With the coming of spring and a return to gardening and other out-of-doors activities, the risk of tetanus increases.

For several years the American Medical Association and many state and county medical societies have carried on continuing campaigns to urge the American public to protect itself against this very serious disease.

Tetanus — commonly known as lockjaw — need not happen. By means of immunization, tetanus is almost entirely preventable.

Spores in Soil

The tetanus spores can be found in the cultivated soils of most areas of the United States. They can be picked up by plants or animals, and introduced into the victim's body by something as inconsequential as the scratch of a thorn or an insect bite.

While millions of babies and members of the armed forces have been inoculated against tetanus, the fact remains that about three-fourths of the adult population is lacking in immunity. The protection offered by immunization wears off after a few years and must be reestablished by booster shots, which most people fail to get.

Produce Poisons

Once they enter the body, tetanus spores "hatch" into microscopic bacteria, which begin to multiply. In the process they liberate one of the deadliest of all poisons which attacks the nerve centers, causing convulsions and muscle spasms — some so severe that victims have been known to fracture a vertebra.

Usually the first nerves affected are those of the head and neck which control the chewing muscles. These turn rigid with spasm, giving the disease its familiar name — lockjaw.

In a clean, free-bleeding cut tetanus spores usually are washed out. Or if they do sprout into bacteria, the micro-organisms may be destroyed by the oxygen in the blood. But when blood flow is slight, or when the spores are insulated by imbedded dirt and debris, the tetanus bacteria may gain a deadly foothold within the body. This is because tetanus bacteria thrive in the absence of air.

High Fatality Rate

No drug can halt a full blown case, and about 60 per cent of those stricken die.

Protection by immunization should be started early — one and a half to two months after birth — for the scrapes and falls of childhood offer tetanus many opportunities. In children, as well as adults, immunity is initiated by a series of three shots, spaced over eight weeks, and followed by a booster dose within six to twelve months. Immunity maintained by boosters every five years.

Jury Choice Discriminatory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight congresswomen complained today that jury- selection laws of 29 states discriminate against their sex.

They said many U.S. District courts have failed to give full effect to a 1957 law making women eligible to serve on all federal juries.

The eight asked President Johnson and Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to propose corrective action in a forthcoming administration bill on federal and state juries.

Began Appeal

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, R-N.J., initiated the appeal, made by letter to the President and attorney general.

She was joined by Sens. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, and Maurine B. Neuberger, D-Ore., and Reps. Frances P. Bolton, R-Ohio; Catherine May, R-Wash.; Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash., Charlotte T. Reid, R-Ill., and Patsy T. Mink, D-Hawaii.

"We, as members of Congress," they wrote, "believe that this nation has for too long tolerated the wholly arbitrary discrimination against women's participation in the jury system."

CORN-STUFFED PORK CHOPS

Another all-time FAVORITE RECIPE from Better Homes and Gardens

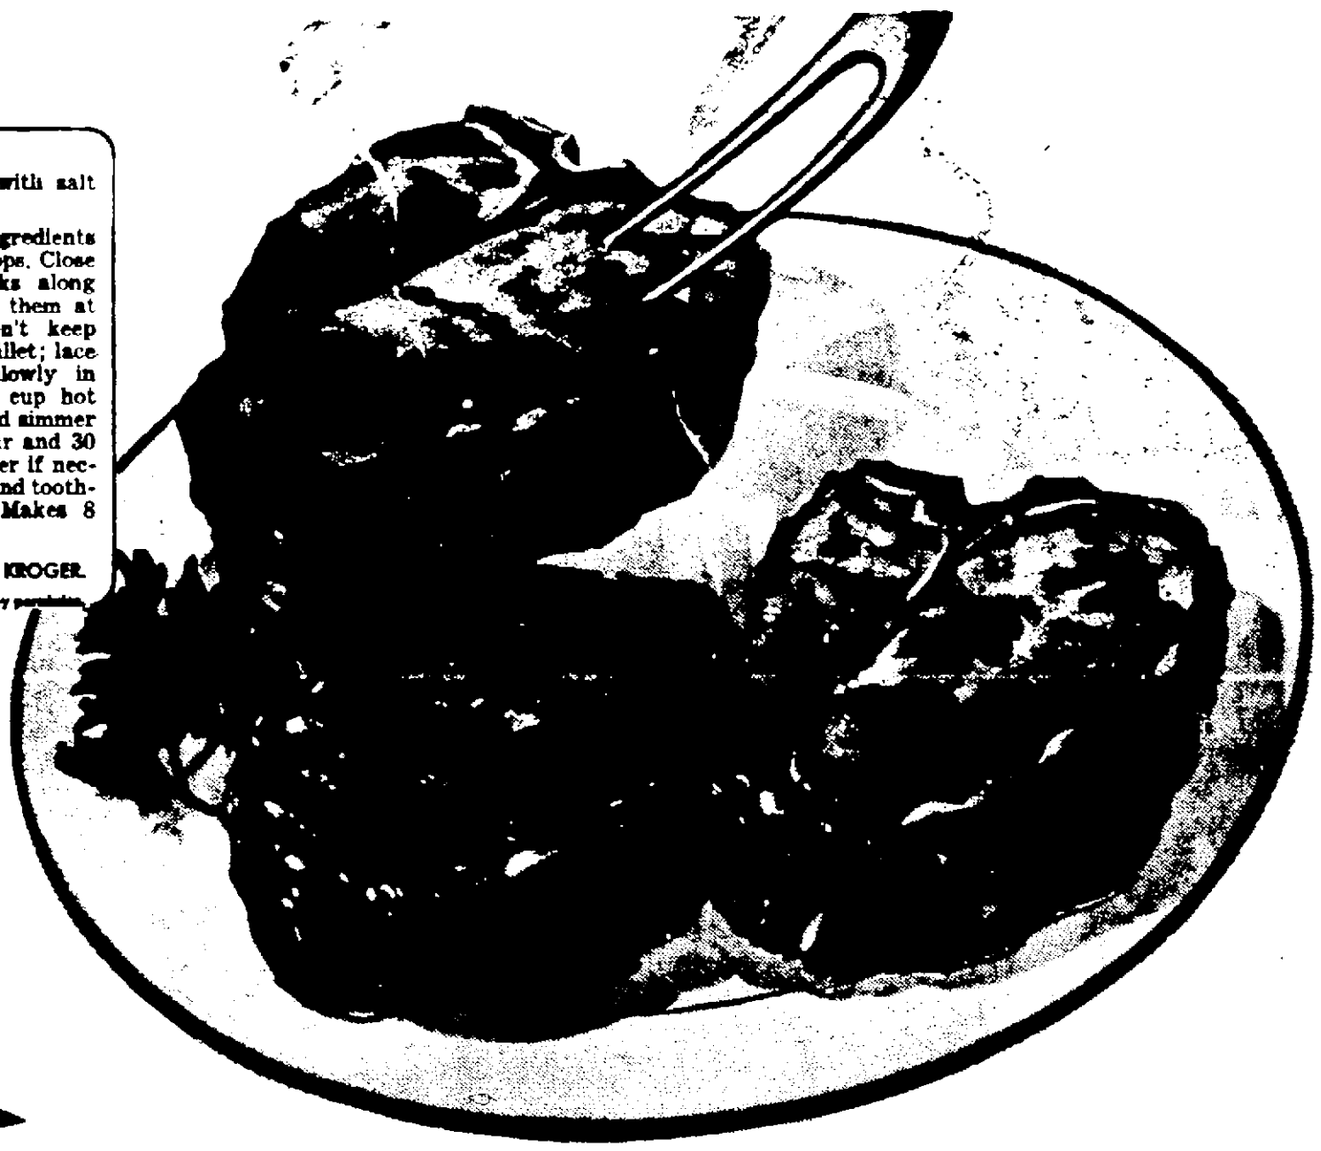

8 double-rib pork chops (about 3 pounds)
Salt and pepper
1 can (1½ cups) whole kernel corn, drained
2 tablespoons each chopped pimiento, celery, and green pepper
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup dry bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon sage

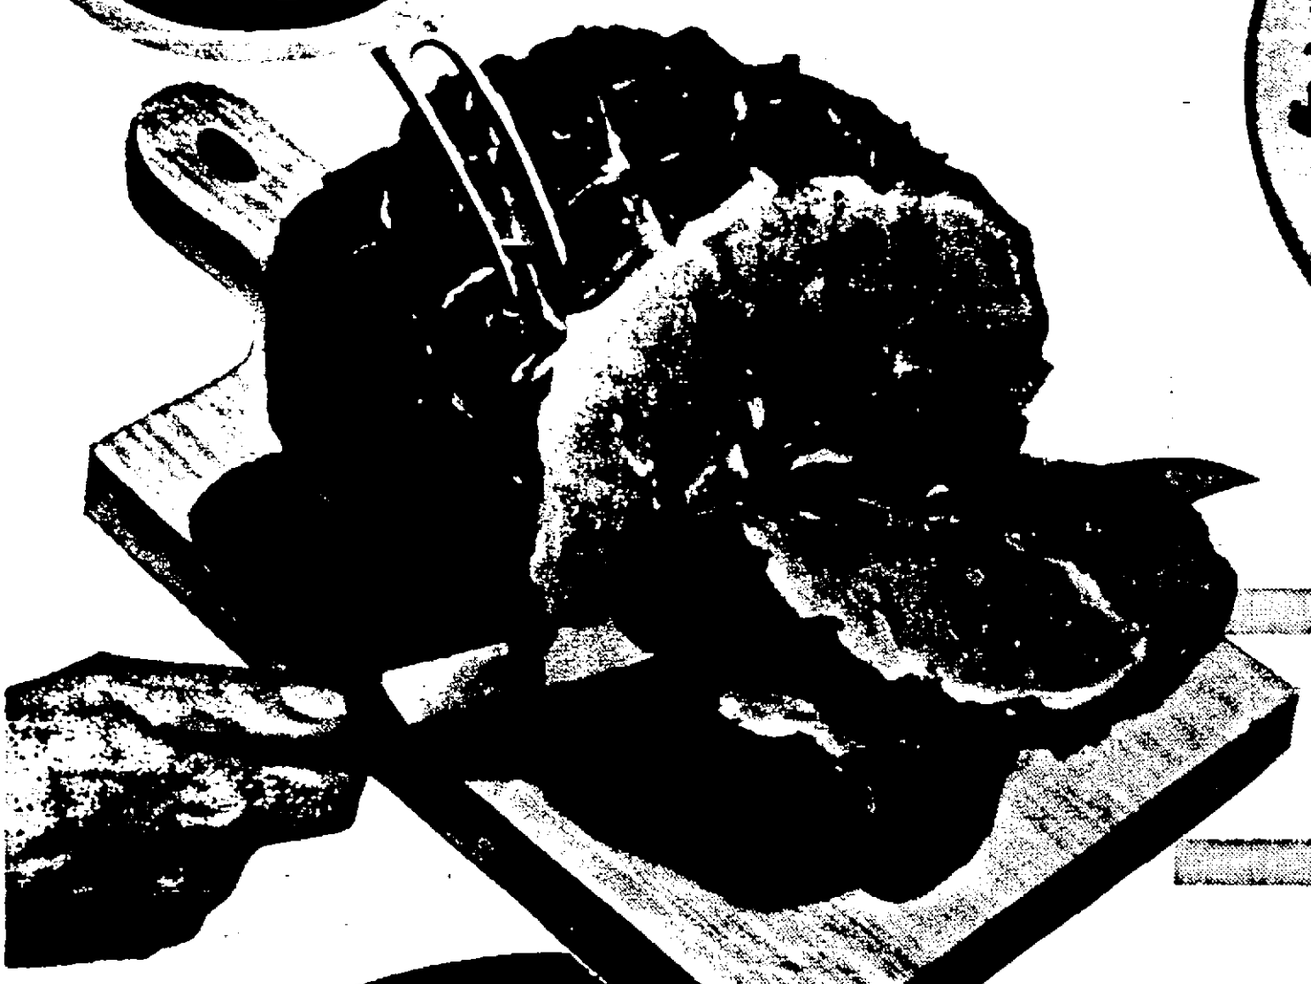

Cut pocket in each chop, slitting from fat side and cutting almost to bone edge. Season with salt and pepper.

Combine remaining ingredients and stuff pockets in chops. Close opening with toothpicks along the fat edge, inserting them at an angle so they don't keep chops from touching skillet; lace with string. Brown slowly in heavy skillet. Add ½ cup hot water; cover tightly and simmer till tender, about 1 hour and 30 minutes. Add more water if necessary. Remove string and toothpicks before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Vegetables Star in Pre-Spring Meals

Cook all vegetables just until tender-crisp. This is a most important point which gourmet cooks heed.

Canned vegetables are already thoroughly cooked, so they need only be heated to serve. Drain off the liquid from the can into a saucepan. Bring it to a boil and let it cook down to about one-third its original quantity. Add the vegetable and cook it just long enough to heat thoroughly. There will be just enough liquid left to serve with the vegetable, and the nutrients in the liquid will not be lost.

FROZEN VEGETBLES

Frozen vegetables should be cooked without thawing, or thawed just enough to break apart large pieces as in broccoli or asparagus. Use just enough water to supply steam (¼ to ½ cup). Use a broad shallow saucepan or skillet so that the frozen vegetables make a single layer.

For two packages of vegetables use the same amount of water as for one. Select a pan wide enough to let the two blocks lie side by side. Follow package directions for cooking frozen cooked vegetables such as mashed squash or candied sweet potatoes.

SPINACH TIMBALES

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 (10-ounce package chopped spinach, thawed
- 5 eggs
- ½ cup grated Swiss cheese
- 16 wafers, finely rolled (about 2/3 cup crumbs)
- 1 cup hot milk
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper

Melt butter or margarine in a small saucepan. Saute onion until soft. Squeeze all water from spinach; chop very finely. Add to onion. Cover; cook five minutes.

Beat eggs until foamy. Add cheese and crumbs. Slowly stir in milk; slowly stir in spinach. Add seasonings.

Pour into buttered individual baking dishes or custard cups, filling each ¾-inch from top. If desired, refrigerate until baking time.

Set in shallow baking pan. Fill pan with hot water to ½-inch from top of dishes. Bake on low rack in a preheated 350-degree oven 25 to 35 minutes or until silver knife inserted into center comes out clean. (If refrigerated before baking, bake 40 minutes or until done.)

Serve in baking dishes or run spatula all around insides of each dish and unmold onto serving plate. Recipe makes four to six servings.

SABRA SUPPER

- 1 cup pitted ripe olives
- 1 medium eggplant
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- ¼ cup water
- ½ teaspoon celery salt
- 2 cups uncooked fine noodles
- Boiling, salted water
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- ¼ cup shredded Parmesan cheese

Cut olives into halves. Peel and cut eggplant into small chunks. Cook onion and green pepper in oil until vegetables begin to wilt. Add eggplant chunks, water and celery salt. Cover tightly; cook over low heat about 10 to 15 minutes until tender. If necessary, add a couple tablespoons water to keep from sticking; mixture should be dry when done.

Meanwhile, cook noodles in boiling salted water according to package directions until tender; drain well. Toss eggplant mixture with hot noodles, olives, sour cream and cheese. Recipe makes four servings.

ENSALADA de GARBANZAS

- ½ pound dried chick peas (or dried beans)
- Water
- ½ cup tarragon vinegar
- ¼ cup olive or salad oil
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- ½ cup pimiento-stuffed olives, sliced
- ¼ pound hard salami, cut in strips
- Salad greens
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped scallions or green onions
- 2 tomatoes, diced

Soak chick peas (or beans) in cold water overnight; drain. Cover with salted water in saucepan. Bring to boil, simmer one hour, 45 minutes or until tender. Drain and rinse with cold water; drain again.

Combine vinegar, oil, garlic, salt and pepper in bowl. Add chick peas, olives and salami. Mix lightly and chill. Turn into bowl lined with salad greens. Sprinkle with scallions; garnish with tomatoes.

MUSHROOM CASSEROLE

- ½ cup uncooked rice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup boiling water
- ½ pound pork, cut in cubes
- ½ pound veal, cut in cubes
- Vegetable shortening
- 1 (6-oz.) package whole mushrooms frozen in butter sauce
- 1½ cups chopped celery
- ¾ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ cup chopped pimiento
- 1 (10½-oz.) can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce

Place rice and salt in 1½-quart casserole; add boiling water and set aside. Brown meat in vegetable shortening. Remove frozen mushrooms from pouch. Saute 5 minutes over high heat in covered skillet. Remove cover; add celery, onion and green pepper and saute over medium heat five additional minutes. Mix all ingredients with rice in casserole. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for about 1¾ hours. Recipe makes six servings.

HARVARD BEETS

- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- ⅓ cup granulated sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup mild vinegar
- ⅓ cup beet liquid
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3 cups diced or sliced cooked or canned beets

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt together well. Slowly stir in vinegar, then beet liquid, blending to a smooth mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat until sauce is clear and thickened. Add butter and beets. Keep warm for 10 to 15 minutes before serving.

ONIONS POLONAISE

- 2 pounds small white or yellow skin onions
- 1 quart boiling water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice or vinegar (optional)
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup soft bread crumbs
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- Salt and pepper, to taste

Peel onions and drop into rapidly boiling water; season with teaspoon salt and lemon juice, if desired. Cook, uncovered, until onions are fork tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Drain onions and top with Polonaise Sauce to serve piping hot.

To make sauce: Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Stir in bread crumbs until coated with butter. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until crumbs are golden brown. Add lemon juice, season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir well, then pour over hot onions. Recipe makes six servings.

Clean Tea Tiles

Those tea tiles placed under hot dishes, cold pitchers, and coffee pots to protect table surfaces need to be washed along with the dishes everytime they are used. Instead of immersing those with felt backing, just wipe the decorative surface with soap or detergent suds on a soft cloth. Then rinse and wipe dry.

East took the ace of hearts and returned the queen. West overtook the king and tried to cash the jack of hearts, but South ruffed.

Needing the rest of the tricks, South had nothing to fear unless the clubs broke badly. South first drew trumps with the ace, queen and jack.

South next led the jack of spades, and West began a signal by playing the eight. When declarer next took the ace of spades, West completed his signal by playing the seven of spades.

The signal could not help East since if East had the ace of spades he would take the setting trick with or without a signal. The signal served only to tell South that West had started with an even number of spades — two or four.

Missing Four

East had thrown, in order, the deuce, trey, five and six of spades. Since East was an orderly person South felt sure that the four of spades would have appeared if East had held it. Clearly, West held the four of spades, and his signal was meant to show four spades rather than just two.

By this time South knew that West had started with five hearts, four spades and three trumps. There was room in his hand for only one club.

Declarer therefore led a low club to dummy's ace and returned the ten through East. If East played low, South would let the ten ride for a finesse. If East covered the ten with the jack of clubs, South would win and get to dummy with a trump to lead another club through East. Either way South would make the contract.

Congress Unwilling To Okay Aid Cuts In Campaign Period

BY JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — An election year Congress is showing little willingness to go along with President Johnson's proposed cuts in education and school lunch programs.

Johnson sent a message on health and education to Congress Tuesday and won praise for the goals he set of good health and education for all. But he also was put on notice he is in for a fight if he insists on certain economies.

In particular, congressional ire has been aroused by the administration's intention to cut $216 million in funds for schools in areas of federal impact, $101 million from the school milk and lunch programs and $12 million from land grant college funds.

'Forget Cuts'

"The President might as well forget any cuts in the impact and school milk programs," said Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee after the message was read to Congress.

Speaking for my colleagues in the House, said Powell, the President isn't running this year but we are.

Similar views have been sounded in the Senate almost daily since Johnson's intentions were outlined in his budget message last month.

Nine senators sharply attacked the proposed cutbacks in lunch and milk programs Tuesday during the initial Senate hearing on the Agriculture Department's new $7 billion annual appropriation.

The administration's move was defended by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman as aimed at expanding the free lunch and milk programs for millions of school kids who need it but can't pay for it.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., asked if the federal government was trying "to set up some kind of a caste system," and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., added that "means tests" would be humiliating to needy children and their families.

Freeman told the Agriculture Committee members that school officials would provide the needy children with a token or ticket to get free milk or lunch just as it's done now.

"There's been a lot of loose talk about means tests," he said.

Powell's committee will play a decisive role in determining what kind of school legislation Johnson gets, and if he has his way, the cost would go up by at least $700 million over administration proposals.

Powell has told the administration he wants faster action on extending the reach of the Elementary and Secondary School Act by raising from $2,000 to $3,000 the income factor on which most of the money is distributed.

Johnson has proposed making the change in fiscal 1968, but Powell said he wants it to take effect in fiscal 1967, which begins July 1. It would boost the cost of the act, which was passed last year, by $375 million.

The Father and Wife of Charles Schmid, 23, who was found guilty Tuesday of killing two teen-age Tucson girls, left the courtroom in Tucson in tears after Schmid was ordered to die in the gas chamber. Schmid and his 15-year-old wife had been married just two weeks when he was arrested last Nov. 10. He will be formally sentenced by the court March 11. (AP Wirephoto)

Astronaut Scott To Help Create Space Tool Kit

AP Aerospace Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) —When astronaut David R. Scott leaves the Gemini 8 capsule for a stroll in space in mid-March, he will use a power tool that may qualify him as the first space mechanic.

Scott, an Air Force major, will work with the device for only about 10 minutes of his planned 2½ hour excursion. But the nuts and bolts experiment will help develop tool kits for future astronauts.

Details of the experiment were disclosed today at a conference on space maintenance and extravehicular activity — space walks.

Scott and civilian Neil A. Armstrong are to ride Gemini 8 up for a three-day trip on March 15. During the first day, they are to chase and link up with an orbiting Agena satellite.

Scott is to take his record space walk on the second day.

Use Handrails

Shortly after leaving the capsule more than 100 miles above the earth, Scott — at the end of a 25-foot tether — will work his way along the side of the space craft with the help of handrails.

He will open a compartment in which is stored the power tool with a regular hand wrench and a metal plate fastened with four bolts. The power tool superficially resembles the electrically operated devices that mechanics use to remove lugs when changing an automobile tire. But inside it has the complexity of a James Bond device.

It weighs about eight pounds but like Scott will be weightless in space. It is 10½ inches long and 9 inches high and is powered by batteries.

A man using a normal wrench in weightless space would spin like a top because of the reverse action created from a force exerted in twisting on a bolt.

The power tool, designed by the Martin Co. for the Air Force Aeropropulsion Laboratory, has 99.5 per cent less reactive force than a comparable power wrench used on earth.

This has been done through an arrangement of bearings, rings and gears, plus a counter rotating barrel. The result is that the reaction is transferred back to the bolt being tightened rather than to the astronaut.

Before opening the compartment, Scott will use a hook like device to attach his right knee to a spacecraft handrail. Then he will use the power tool to loosen the four bolts in the metal plate.

He will turn the plate over and tighten the bolts, one of instruments to record the amount of force used. He will repeat the exercise using the regular wrench. Then he will do it again after releasing his knee from the fastened position.

Without the knee anchored, Scott should spin slightly while using the regular tool. If so, he will stop before he becomes disoriented.

To record his actions, Scott will mount a movie camera on the side of the spacecraft.

Constitutional Limits Sought on Confessions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-seven states have asked the Supreme Court not to put new constitutional restrictions on police station confessions made in the absence of a lawyer.

This plea was made Monday by Telford Taylor, a Columbia University law professor as the court launched a full-blown review of police suspects' rights.

The Fifth Amendment should not be read as requiring a counsel "be present when confessions are taken," Taylor said for the 27 states.

And he went on if the court should make some new rule governing prosecutors' use of such confessions the rule should not be made retroactive.

Five Cases

The 27 states are being heard through Taylor as "a friend of the court" as the justices study five confession cases that variously raise the right to counsel issue.

Their position reflects in part widespread concern that law enforcement might suffer if the court gives broad application to its 1964 Escobedo ruling which for the first time extended the right to counsel to a suspect in a police station.

The five cases represent a sampling of hundreds of legal disputes that followed in the decision's wake and give the justices an opportunity to clarify their views.

In his brief, Taylor, who was chief prosecutor at the Nuremberg trial of World War II German war criminals, said that a general requirement that counsel be present at the prearraignment stage could have two consequences "in unpredictable proportions."

Eliminates Interrogation

The virtual elimination of prearraignment interrogation or the large scale installation of defense counsel at police stations.

"Neither professional nor general public concepts of fairness warrant the constitutional requirement of such fundamental changes in prearraignment procedures," Taylor said.

At the same time, Taylor said new rules governing confessions are not "necessarily unwise." However, he said they are more appropriately a matter of legislative and judicial policy.

Distribution of Low-Silver Half Dollars to Start Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those new half dollars —only 40 per cent silver but still bearing the likeness of President John F. Kennedy — are expected to begin flowing into American hands within the next two weeks.

"We're trying to get them out as soon as possible," Robert A. Wallace, assistant secretary of the Treasury, said today. "We hope to begin circulating them in about a week or two."

Wallace, whose jurisdiction includes the U. S. Mint, is hopeful the new coins won't wind up the same way as the Kennedy half dollars containing 90 per cent silver which the Treasury began minting in 1964. In fact, he hopes the new halves will bring the older ones out of hiding.

Through last Monday, 409,085,450 of the original Kennedy half dollars had been minted but despite efforts of the Federal Reserve System to place them in circulation they have virtually disappeared.

Why?

Only theories can be advanced, Wallace said, and the best one is that they've become mementoes of the late president. Many — exact numbers are unknown — have gone overseas, he added.

Wallace said this is an emotional rather than a rational response.

The Kennedy half dollar will be the "coin of the realm" for at least 25 years, he said. Existing law bars any change in coin design for at least 25 years and then only by an act of Congress.

Vending Machines

Miss Eva Adams, director of the mint, said use of half dollars in change and vending machines also has contributed to increased demand.

Although minting of Kennedy half dollars containing 90 per cent silver will cease when the new coins begin circulating, the Treasury feels enough of the original coins will be minted to keep them from becoming collectors' items.

With the exception of half dollars, the Treasury thinks the acute coin shortage is over.

Except for half dollars, we're in better shape now on other coins than during any comparable period in the last 10 years, Wallace said.

Two Children Latest to die On State Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A pair of deaths Tuesday from separate accidents boosted Wisconsin's 1966 highway death toll to 131 compared with 136 at the same time last year.

Mack O'Connell, 12, of rural Roberts, one of seven passengers in a car driven by his aunt, Mrs. Ruth O'Connell, was killed Tuesday afternoon near Hammond in St. Croix County. The car skidded off the road and authorities said that six of the passengers were thrown from it. Two other children were reported in serious condition in a Baldwin hospital.

A suburban Milwaukee girl, Mary Ellen Kuester, 12, of Oak Creek, died Tuesday of injuries sustained Saturday. The car she was a passenger in with six other members of her family collided with a North Western switch engine on Highway 100 in Oak Creek.

Merrill School Plans to Become Junior College

MERRILL (AP)—Plans for a Junior College to open in the fall of 1968 have been announced here by the Sisters of the Holy Cross. The college would be non-denominational and co-educational.

Facilities presently used for a girl's high school would be utilized for the college. The 135 student high school would be phased out over the next two years.

The Holy Cross Sisters, whose motherhouse is in Switzerland, maintain a hospital at Merrill as well as the order's United States headquarters. The order is located in Wisconsin, North Dakota, Ohio, Louisiana and Illinois and are active in both the teaching and hospital fields.

The school would offer a full liberal arts program.

Fire Destroys Barn, Livestock at Adell

ADELL, Wis. (AP) —A fire on the David Stange farm near this Sheboygan County community early today destroyed a barn, three heifers, 600 bales of straw, 1,200 bales of hay, a farm wagon and numerous hand tools.

Cause of the blaze and the amount of loss were not determined immediately. The blaze was fought by firemen from Batavia.

7,693 Workers in State Found to Have Been Getting Too Little Pay

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Intensive wage and hour investigations by the Labor Department revealed $1,203,466 in minimum wage and overtime underpayments due to 7,693 workers in Wisconsin during 1965.

Clarence B. Frazier, field office supervisor in eastern Wisconsin, said the underpayments were detected as a result of 978 investigations.

Only Two Affirmative Votes Expected for Communist Nation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Communist members of the U.N. Security Council are expected to press for quick action on East Germany's bid for U.N. membership but defeat of the application is considered certain.

Polish Ambassador Bohdan Lewandowski delivered the application from East German Chief of State Walter Ulbricht to Secretary General U Thant Tuesday. It was accompanied by a memorandum from the East German Foreign Ministry and a pledge from Ulbricht that the East German government would adhere to obligations of the U.N. Charter.

A U.S. spokesman promptly restated the long-standing position taken by the United States, Britain and France, the three Western occupation powers for Germany — that the West German government is the only German government freely and legitimately constituted and therefore entitled to speak for the German people in international affairs.

Occupation Zone

The three Western allies contend that East Germany is not a sovereign state but an occupation zone. As such it is ineligible for U.N. membership.

For admission to the United Nations, East Germany would have to win:

—Recommendation of the 15-nation council, which requires nine affirmative votes with none of the five permanent members casting a veto.

—Ratification by two-thirds of the 117-nation General Assembly.

Diplomats said the East Germans could be sure of only two affirmative votes in the council, the Soviet Union and Communist Bulgaria.

In the memorandum accompanying its application, East Germany reportedly suggested that West Germany also be admitted to the United Nations as a move toward "confederation" between the two. However, West Germany was not expected to apply for membership because this might prejudice its case for German reunification.

Observer Missions

West Germany has an observer mission at the United Nations and has made heavy financial contributions to U.N. programs. East Germany has no representation here.

In Bonn, a spokesman for West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said his government was confident the East German application would be rejected.

Divided nations have never won admittance to the United Nations. Soviet vetoes killed applications from South Korea and South Viet Nam. North Korea and North Viet Nam have never mustered enough votes to gain recommendation for admission.

Helicopter Mishap Injures 2 State Men

NEW YORK (AP)—Two Sheboygan men in New York on a business trip sustained slight injuries Tuesday when two rotor blades of the helicopter they were in snapped and knifed into the fuselage.

Leslie Quasius, 55, and Robert Honold, 56, were preparing to take off for a flight from Kennedy Airport into mid-town Manhattan when the accident happened.

Quasius suffered a bruised head from flying debris and Honold suffered a nose cut. Both were treated at the scene.

The two men said they had just arrived in New York and thought we would enjoy a new experience by flying into Manhattan.

Your Money's Worth

Education of 'Human Capital' Is Important

This year, in Maine, a mobile professional chamber orchestra will be assembled to bring classical music to 117 000 isolated elementary and high school children

In Kentucky, Louisville high school students soon will be attending local theater productions, then will go to special seminars led by members of the theater company

Porter

In Washington state, an 'out door learning center will be set up on a 586 acre plot of wilderness land where high school students will participate in an experiment designed to find out how to retain their sense of wonder about the natural world around them' These students will explore such subjects as biology geology, conservation, ornithology forestry and the balance of nature

In Colorado one public school system is now setting up an elaborate computer system to study objectively the student response to a variety of teaching techniques (Sample question such a system might answer How does an abacus compare with a blackboard in teaching mathematics?) In California and Michigan programs are getting under way in which children will tutor other children In New York City the Board of Education is planning eight traveling science centers for slum children, manned by trained instructors

Under U S Program

So it goes in area after area For these are just examples of new educational experiments being tried under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act's little known but vitally significant Title III provision for supplementary educational services and centers The goal, in the words of one U S Office of Education specialist, is to put to work new and promising ideas good educators have had for a long time Ultimately we hope that these ideas will filter down to every school district in the nation We know for example, that in math teaching discovery is better than brute force memorization In the sciences, open - ended experimentation is better than cook book methods With foreign languages meaningful conversation is better than blackboard declensions"

So far schools have filed more than 750 applications for grants to finance such education experiments and of these 217 have been applied since Congress appropriated $75 million for Title III in late September

What has all this to do with economics? Plenty!

Only in the past decade notes the National Education Association in Washington, have economists focused on the concept of human capital' as an investment Now it's widely recognized that almost one fourth of our yearly growth in Gross National Product results from the influence of education on the quality of labor — and therefore on our national productivity

The fact is as I have written literally hundreds of times, our jobs our incomes, our productivity, our overall affluence or lack of affluence are linked directly to the quantity and quality of education we receive Although the U S has more educational facilities and opportunities than any other nation in the world today, there are still around one million high school dropouts a year Only half of our adult population has finished high school and only one in ten has finished college

The gap between our education and training and the hard realities of today's job market remains enormous

To close this gap will require not only more, but also better, education It will demand a breakaway from the resisting ruts in which so many of our public schools are entrenched It will mean at least trying out new and sometimes revolutionary education methods It will, in the process, make the whole educational experience far more meaningful to youngsters

At the heart of the problem of improving the quality of American education are flexibility, innovation and change — just as it is with science or industry In a dynamic society, the educational process should be a leader, not a laggard

Board Named Coordinator For Schools

James Westphal Replaces Retson During Leave

James Westphal, elementary consultant in the Appleton Public Schools, was named acting elementary coordinator by the Appleton Board of Education Monday.

He will fill that position for one year while James Retson is on a leave of absence.

A native of Bonduel, Westphal has been with the Appleton system since he graduated from Wisconsin State University Oshkosh in 1959.

He was active in the multiage movement at Huntley School where he taught from 1959 to 1964 when he was named elementary consultant.

Westphal has served on the Wisconsin Social Studies Curriculum Committee and has served or is presently serving on all local curriculum committees.

11 New Teachers

Eleven new teachers for the 1966-67 school year have also been contracted. Teaching at the senior high school will be Jon D. Blackman, Wisconsin State University LaCrosse graduate, chemistry-math; Miss Sarah M. Paul, Winona State College in Minnesota, speech; Mrs. Marlene Schultz, Stout State, home economics; and Miss Beatrice Temp, WSU LaCrosse, English.

New elementary teachers include Miss Helaine Muehlmeier, III. Lawrence University, vocal music; Miss Patricia Nehring, WSU-O, special education; Miss Karen J. Spark, Ripon, intermediate; Ronald J. Yonke, Northern Michigan, intermediate; Miss Marie M. Urban, WSU LaCrosse, primary; William Harding, Wisconsin State University, Whitewater, intermediate; and Miss Kathleen Parsek, Northern Michigan, kindergarten.

Six Won't Return

Michael M. Wautier, a graduate of St. Norbert College, has been contracted for this semester and the 1966-67 school year to teach communicative arts at Roosevelt Jr. high school. He is replacing Frederick Snyder, who accepted a position as reading teacher in the Arkansas-Waterville School District in western Wisconsin.

Six other teachers have indicated they will not renew their contracts in 1966. They are William Haack and Paul E. Smith at the high school; Mrs. Louis Bylow at Lincoln; Miss Joanne Mummie and Mrs. Marcella Timmers, Huntley; and Miss Nancy Rintelmann, Richmond.

A year's leave of absence was granted to Alfred Robinson. Einstein Robinson received a geology grant from the National Science Foundation.

Christian Science Marks Centennial

BOSTON (AP) — The Christian Science Church plans several events this year to mark its 100th anniversary.

Included are a worldwide speaking tour by Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of the Christian Science Monitor; publication of a book titled "A Century of Christian Science Healing"; and the start of an expanded 15-acre church center here.

The centennial is based on events in 1866 in the life of Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Church.

Lawrence Adds To Alumni Staff

Seymour Priestly, Peter Thomas Named To University Posts

Two Lawrence graduates have been appointed to the staff for Lawrence Alumni Association activities, John M. Rosebush, director of alumni affairs and development, announced.

Peter Thomas, '62, Northbrook, Ill., has been named director of annual funds, while Seymour Priestley, '64, Lake Forest, Ill., is assistant to the director of alumni affairs for on campus activities.

Thomas, an economics major, recently returned from several years of Air Force service in Germany. He was a first lieutenant at his discharge. He was commander of the Arnold Air Society of Lawrence's AFROTC program, nine letterman in athletics, conference champion in the 191-pound wrestling class, lineman in football, and an all-conference choice in baseball.

Thomas is affiliated with Beta Theta Pi fraternity and took part in the student government encampment. His wife is the former Patricia Webb, a 1962 graduate of Lawrence.

Priestley played varsity football, was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, secretary of the Interfraternity Council, school of Western Reserve and a representative to the University, and since that time has been associated with the Student Senate while at Lawrence. During the 1964-65 school year, he was enrolled in the law school of Western Reserve and a representative to the University, and since that time has been associated with the Green Giant Company in Beaver Dam.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Russell Named College Cager of Year by AP

Big Ten, NCAA Titles Are Goals, Superstar Says

ANN ARBOR, Mich (AP) — The 14-year-old kid was playing catch with a baseball at Chicago s Carver High School when Larry Hawkins spotted him

Hawkins a teacher and basketball coach watched awhile Then he pulled the kid out of the gym class

'You're not going to get a scholarship playing baseball" Hawkins told the boy ' Let s try basketball"

The boy, who still has ambitions to play baseball is Cazzie Lee Russell Jr , named College Basketball s Player of the Year by The Associated Press Tuesday

"I hardly know what to say" said Russell when told of his selection while student teaching at an Ann Arbor school ' I'm grateful I hope I'm deserving of such an award"

Changed Subject

Russell, who became the first player in Michigan history to score 2 000 points Monday when the Wolverines whipped Iowa 103-88 was quick to change the subject from himself to the team

' I just hope we can win the Big Ten, and we're working real hard on that," he said, adding "Then we can go for the big prize — the NCAA "

Russell has made All-Big Ten, and All-America, but Michigan has never come closer than second in the NCAA title run

Russell's a sure bet to be the No 1 selection in the National Basketball Association player draft this spring But under NBA rules he will most likely wind up with the poorest team, either New York or Detroit

Russell has other ambitions including teaching coaching and radio broadcasting

His 31 points against Iowa Monday gave him 2 029 for three varsity years at Michigan The old mark of 1 625 was held by Bill Buntin now with the Pistons Russell also holds the season mark, 694 so far this year with two games to go

But his value to Michigan's basketball fortunes are more intricate Coach Dave Strack thinks Russell should shoot more but can t find serious fault with his 6-foot 5' inch superstar

The 225-pound 21 year old senior asked Strack what to work on during the summer after his junior year

ask the court to find that the antitrust laws have been violated by the National League and its 10 members and that for features be ordered against the defendants

The way was cleared for the re entry of the opposing legal teams into the court room — they spent only 10 minutes there on the opening day Monday — when the logjam suddenly disappeared in a series of moves that saw these other developments

— The opposing legal teams agreed that the closely guarded salary secrets of the 10 National League clubs involved would be kept from public view by clearing the court room when such figures are used in arguments

— Judge Roller denied a series of motions offered by National League attorneys including a request by baseball attorneys to amend their answers to the state s complaint

Ruling by Georgiea, Texas

Defense counsel had tried to get before the court rulings by Georgia and Texas judges who had ordered the Braves to play the 1966 season in Atlanta In denying the motion, the court noted it was not precluding later introduction of any evidence ' material to certain issues in the case"

Judge Roller also denied a motion for adjournment until July 1 and a motion to restrict trial issues to the basic allegation that the move of the Braves violates Wisconsin s Little Sherman Act

Stafford then made his opening remarks and Jinkinson followed with his saying that it was baseball s position that the court could not regulate the sport because that would 'squarely contradict federal policy

Jinsinson cited the 1922 U S Supreme Court decision allowing baseball to be self regulating

The state, he added, admits a frontal attack on baseball would be self-defeating and so creates the double illusion of attacking baseball while promising to obey all of baseball s rules if they are admitted to baseball '

"Running Arcade"

In pointing to the National League s decision to allow the Braves to move Jinkinson said because of difficulties in Milwaukee ' the Braves were not running a ball club they were running a penny arcade

Stafford firing the initial heavy guns of Wisconsin s challenge to baseball s traditional antitrust immunity said the ' Braves moved because the new owners wanted to pay off indebtness of $3 million which they had created '

Stafford was referring to the group of Chicago businessmen who bought control of the Braves from Lou Perini in 1962

Their problems were self inflicted ' Stafford said and were in no way related to the support given the team by Milwaukee adding

They sought ' the TV contract in Atlanta to pay off this debt in a hurry '

Prior to his opening remarks Stafford advised the defense that he would subpoena Arthur Montgomery chairman of the Fulton County Ga Recreation Authority — the Atlanta Stadium group — to testify in the trial A desposition will be taken from Montgomery in Atlanta Friday

National League attorney Bowie K Kuhn was scheduled to wrap up baseball s opening remarks today before the prosecution called its first witnesses

because of its larger stadia according to Groza

The economic factor is the thing that will bring the two leagues together or will kill one off Groza indicated He added that it s anyone s guess right now as to how it will come out

Groza posed the question What does it thig bonus policy do to established players? He wouldn t go into the matter however except to say no one knows how far it will go and he wouldn t comment on the possibility of unionizing pro gridders

Groza feels that Atlanta will make faster progress than other new teams that have come into the NFL and lauded the coaching ability of Norb Hecker

Groza the only Brown remaining active from the original 1946 team cites three major changes in pro football since that time (1) The increased importance of the passing game (2) The change in basic defences from 6 and 5-man lines to the current 4 man lines (3) Players are much bigger

Commission to Decide Title-Bout Fate

2 Alternatives Face Illinois

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Athletic Commission ensnared in a growing cobweb of legal obstacles, apparently is left with two alternatives in another emergency meeting today regarding the Cassius Clay Ernie Terrell fight

They are

1 Outright cancellation of the scheduled heavyweight title bout in Chicago March 29

2 A time consuming public hearing delving into the possibility of renewing fight licenses for promoter Irv Schoenwald and for Clay and Terrell

Illinois State Attorney General William G Clark in a 15 page directive to chairman Joe Triner of the commission in essence said new licenses would have to be approved

He pointed out that another look must be given to Terrell after the New York Athletic Commission refused to grant him a license on the grounds that he once had association with Bernie Glickman of Chicago alleged associate of hoodlums

Another Look At Clay

Clark said another look must be given to Clay because he has made statements that he was unwilling to serve in the Armed Forces of the United States and would take action to avoid the draft

Clark said a look must be made at Schoenwald s license to promote since there are some technicalties involved such as expiration of his license March 22, a week before the fight and expiration of his bond March 9

Renewal of the license for Schoenwald who has held one in the state for 32 years is a simple procedure

But the other look at licenses for Clay and Terrell becomes a problem

Even if all objection can be cured ' said Clark, "there still is the burning issue of acts detrimental to boxing If the commission holds a hearing — and it is required if plans to hold the fight in Illinois continue — it will then be up to the commission to determine if such a fight would be in the best interests of the public of Illinois '

Section 23 of the Illinois Sports Act provides that a licensee shall be a person of good and stable moral character not likely to engage in acts detrimental to the public or to honestly conducted boxing matches

Privilege to Compete

The issuance of a license to participate in a boxing match is a privilege granted by the State of Illinois it is not a right ' said Clark I affirm the right of an individual to hold whatever belief he may choose There are few restrictions or limitations on the right of an individual to publicly express these beliefs

However freedom of speech or expression is not the issue here The narrow points of the inquiry are these

1 Whether Mr Clay s statement relating to the draft indicate a present intention to violate United States Selective Service Laws and is an actor detrimental to the public

2 Whether Mr Terrell s statement before the New York Athletic Commission and its rejection of his license application indicate that his Illinois license should be further reviewed by the Illinois Commission

'Slim' Powell Reports to Orioles

Mathews Arrives in Camp

By DICK COUCH

Mickey Mantle and Eddie Mathews, two of baseball's premier sluggers, have checked into spring training bases for their 15th major league fling.

The Atlanta Braves welcomed Mathews at their West Palm Beach, Fla., camp Tuesday and the 34-year-old third baseman promised to be in playing shape before the end of the week.

"I just need to run for a few days and get tuned up a little bit, and I'll be ready to go," said the left-hand power hitter, who stands sixth on the all-time home run list with a total of 477.

Four Behind Mathews

Mantle, seven days younger than Mathews and four homers behind the Braves' veteran, arrived at the New York Yankees' base at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., signed his fourth consecutive $100,000 contract and then cast a shadow over the homecoming party.

"I don't know if I can start the season," he said, explaining that his recent operation was more intricate than had been believed.

Mantle said surgery on his right shoulder, performed Jan. 25 at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., involved inflamed tendons as well as the removal of a bone chip.

"It'll take longer to get in shape than if it were just a bone chip," the injury-plagued star continued. "But, if I hadn't had the operation, I could not have played."

He said he hopes to be able to play by the end of the training season.

Twins' Surprise

The former Purdue quarterback, who lost his second base job two years ago when sidelined by knee troubles, has been the early surprise of the Twins camp. He credits a winter conditioning program for strengthening the knee, which was operated on last year, and hopes to regain his 1962 form, when he hit .269 for Minnesota.

The Giants signed first baseman Willie McCovey to an estimated $40,000 contract, leaving pitchers Juan Marichal and Bob Shaw, and outfielder Jesus Alou outside the fold.

Wrightstown, Bear Creek '5s' Gain Victories

Will Meet Friday In Sub-Regional Title Contest

WRIGHTSTOWN — Wrightstown High School swamped Ashwaubenon, 74-38, and Bear Creek outlasted Shiocton, 72-59, in sub-regional tournament play here Tuesday night.

The Tigers had built a 28-17 lead over Ashwaubenon at the end of the first half and then poured in 32 points in the third quarter while the losers could only register 11.

Wrightstown's Tom Ribarchek, a 6-foot freshman playing his first game with the varsity, took game scoring honors with 14 points.

The Bear Creek-Shiocton contest was close until the last minutes of play when Bear Creek, with four of Shiocton's starters out on fouls, pulled ahead for good. The winners played a tight man-to-man, pressing defense throughout the tiff.

Bear Creek's Ron Thoma led the scoring with 20 points.

Wrightstown and Bear Creek will meet here Friday (7:30 p.m.) in the sub-regional title game. The winner of Friday's game will play the Howard-Suamico sub-regional victors at Green Bay Southwest Saturday.

three of four non-league outings, but two of them were to formidable foes, Milwaukee North and Monroe. Yet, that still leaves no basis for comparative scores between the Ships and Papermakers.

Meanwhile, Kaukauna faces a team which is currently in the throes of a 14-game losing streak. But Two Rivers' only M-E victory came at the expense of the Ken VanderVelden-directed Ghosts, 77-67.

Two Rivers raced to three wins in its first four engagements this season, but now 14 games hence, hasn't tasted the sweetness of victory since that time. Still, the potential is available for the Purple Raiders, it just seems to be a matter of finding the right combination.

Head Parade

E. J. Streu, a 3-year veteran, Paul Koprowski and Gary Jaeckel head the Raider scoring parade, all with 10-point plus averages. The remainder of the starting lineup is selected from among Mike and Tom Turman and Jon Koch.

VanderVelden plans to open with seniors Gary Riemer, Bob Main and Greg Eslien and juniors Quinn Vanden Heuvel and Pat Kavanaugh. For the season, the Ghosts are 9-9 in the won-loss column.

Kimberly's offensive power might turn the tide in the Papermaker favor against the Ships. Of the five starters, four boast double figure scoring averages, while the fifth, Gary Gossens, holds a 9.9 mark.

John Reider, KHS' outstanding guard, heads the attack with a 17.3 mark, while 6-5 senior Gary Van Cuyk is close behind with a 15.7 average. Senior guard Bob Van Gompel is next with 14.2, while the ever-improving Ken Fries, a 6-0 junior, boasts a 13.2 average.

Manitowoc stresses a rugged rebounding game and balanced scoring attack. Only three players have scoring averages over the 10-point mark. These include 6-3 Ed Seidl, 10.8; 5-10 guard Mike Pollock, 10.6 and 6-2 forward Steve Check, 10.1. Other starters will be picked from among Bob Zigmund (6-3), Pete Wilke (6-2) and Bob Rosinsky (5-8).

Kimberly has scored at a 76.0 clip, while the Ships average output is 61.8. Manty, however, is tougher on defense with a per game average yield of 54.7, while the Papermakers allow points at a 67.4 per game clip.

Mason Impressed

Kimberly's Mason was impressed with the rebounding and defense of the Ships. He noted that Manty likes to work with three forwards, each alternating in the pivot at times, but declined to attempt to compare them to any team met by his Papermakers this season.

The 9-game victory streak that was snapped in overtime by Clintonville (72-67) last Friday should have a beneficial affect on Kimberly, Mason felt. Trailing by 12 points at halftime, the Papermakers actually regained the lead early in the fourth period.

"It was a tournament-type game," commented Mason. "The way we came storming back in the second half and then tying the game with two seconds remaining to send it into overtime before losing might have meant a great deal to us. The pressure was there and I thought we handled it real well."

Kaukauna's VanderVelden, meanwhile, looks for a rugged game against Two Rivers, despite the 3-15 Raider slate.

Singles, Doubles Under Way

Record 397 Teams Compete In Valley Women's Meet

A record number of 397 teams have entered the Central Fox Valley Women's Bowling Association Tournament, and squads will begin bowling Saturday at the 41 Bowl.

Wins, 65-63, in Overtime

Elkhart Lake Quint Upsets Stockbridge in Tournament

KOHLER — The Elkhart Lake High School basketball team, which finished the season tied for last place in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference with a 2-11 record, took a 65-63 overtime upset win over previously undefeated Stockbridge in sub-regional tourney play here Tuesday.

In the second game Kohler High School, which shared last place in the EW with Elkhart Lake, edged Howards Grove, 70-66.

The Resorters took a big, 23-11 lead over Stockbridge in the first quarter on a flurry of fast breaks. The Indians played a catch-up game the rest of the way and finally went ahead with less than a minute remaining. The Resorters intentionally fouled Stockbridge's Bill Keuler with seconds remaining to gain possession of the ball. Keuler made the second of the two charity tosses to make the score 61-59, but then Elkhart Lake's Tom Artabasy, who took game scoring honors with 22 points, sank the tying basket in the final seconds.

Keuler led the scoring for the Indians with 15 points.

Kohler took a 7-point lead over Howards Grove in the second stanza after the first had ended tied 15-15. The Tigers rallied in the final canto, outscoring the winners, 19-15, but time ran out.

Howards Grove's Ted Thielcke led the scoring with 21 points.

Milwaukeean, Pro Total 1,379 in Miller Open Event

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Touring bowling pros get their first crack at $60,000 today in the Miller Open. After 24 qualifying games today and Thursday the field will be cut to 16 bowlers for Friday's matches.

In the pro-amateur kickoff event Tuesday night Bob Phillips of San Pablo, Calif., and Milwaukee amateur Frank Prasnikar totaled 1,379 pins to win.

Prasnikar, who collected $1,000, rolled games of 223, 209 and 182 for 614 total and a 36 handicap. Phillips began with a 233, added a 207 and then finished with a sensational 289 as he left only a 4 pin standing in the 11th frame to rob him of a perfect game. His 729 was high pro series for the night.

Panel to Get Site Recommendation

Sub-Committee to Study Report On Northeastern UW Campus

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A committee of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE) will ponder the proposal to locate the new northeastern Wisconsin University of Wisconsin branch at Green Bay when it meets here next Tuesday morning

The Fox Cities Education Committee Monday sent a letter to Gov Warren Knowles and the CCHE protesting the site recommendation

Assemblyman Harold Froehlich (R-Appleton) Tuesday urged the Fox Cities group to seek an injunction to halt further action on the site selection Sen Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek) had made the suggestion at a meeting of the Fox Cities group Monday.

To Get Report

The committee, headed by Robert L. Pierce of Menomonie, will have before it the report of the special statutory site selection committee which last week recommended the Shorewood location east of Green Bay, and turned down other suggested sites, including those advanced by Outagamie County civic groups

The issue will be before the full Coordinating Committee at its quarterly meeting here two days later, on March 10 Approval of the CCHE, the State Building Commission, and Knowles is required to make the site selection effective

Pierce is a veteran member of the Board of Regents of State Colleges, which supervises the state university system which fought unsuccessfully with the University of Wisconsin administration for administrative jurisdiction of the new northeastern school when the enabling act was before the Legislature last year

Heavy Schedule

The CCHE will have a heavy schedule of issues before it when it meets next week

Among other major policy reports will be those of other sub-committees on the issue of

Schlitz Asks To Reopen Trust Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co of Milwaukee Tuesday renewed its motion to reopen the government's anti-trust trial against it

The case is now under submission

Schlitz also asked for removal of the court order restraining the company from voting its shares of John Labatt Ltd of Canada

Schlitz based its motion on the announced intent of a Labatt subsidiary — General Brewing Corp of San Francisco — to sell its Azusa Calif brewery to the Miller Brewing Co of Milwaukee

Schlitz contended the proposed sale has an effect upon General Brewing's status as a non resident student limitations for the University of Wisconsin and the state universities, summer plant utilization policy and space guidelines for the institutional systems There will also be a report on a proposal for the establishment of a two year college campus at Fond du Lac as a branch of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh competitor in California and bears on the basic issue of the antitrust case against Schlitz

The government has asked that Schlitz be divested of its controlling interest in Labatt and its control of the Burgermeister Brewing Co of San Francisco

The government's contention was that Labatt's control of General Brewing and Schlitz' interest in Burgermeister gave it an unfair competitive position in the western beer market in violation of the Clayton antitrust act

LBJ Asks to Combine Transportation Units

The Furious Clangor of battle stilled a weary U S paratrooper of the 173rd Airborne Brigade sits in the stillness with his head in his hands after an intense firefight between his company and entrenched Viet Cong guerrillas in the Viet Nam jungle country His weapon rests on bullet-shattered underbrush Casualties in the American unit Sunday were heavy (AP Wirephoto)

Leathernecks Clear Peninsula

U. S. Marines Find Fighting Heavy Near N. Viet Nam

SAIGON South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U S Marine companies ran into heavy fighting late today in their drive to clear Communist forces from a canal laced peninsula 30 mile south east of the North Vietnamese border

The action flared up again after the Viet Cong shied from contact Tuesday with the Leathernecks and Vietnamese troops hunting them down in the rice lands overlooking the South China Sea 12 miles southeast of the old imperial capital of Hue Monday the Marines reported killing 40 Reds and capturing many weapons

Light Casualties

Marine headquarters at Da Nang said the Leathernecks suffered light casualties in the new fighting with the large Viet Cong force Communists losses were not known

The battle was taking place about six miles southeast of the Marine camp at Phu Bai

Otherwise U S planes carried the brunt of the war against the Communists today Only scattered skirmishes were reported from American and Vietnamese forces slogging through the jungles and rice paddies

Air Force B52 bombers roared past slumbering Saigon before dawn to drop their 500 and 750 pound bombs on a suspected Viet Cong storage area near Bien Hoa only 20 miles northeast of the capital

Another flight of the eight engined bombers from Guam pounded a Viet Cong troop concentration reported by intelligence in Phuoc Tuy Province 55 miles east of Saigon

Despite heavy cloud cover U S Air Force and Navy fighter bombers flew 34 missions against North Viet Nam relying mostly on radar to lead them to an assortment of bridges roads and storage areas between the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone and the Vinh area

The U S Military Command announced that 109 Americans were killed and 747 wounded in the fighting last week which included a fierce Viet Cong assault on a regiment on the U S 1st Infantry Division 30 miles north of Saigon Thursday No Americans were reported missing

Previous Week

A week before 112 Americans were killed 405 wounded and four missing the spokesman said adding 29 dead and 96 wounded to the toll announced last week

Vietnamese losses climbed from 197 killed and 77 missing to 379 killed and 183 missing Other allied casualties for Feb 20 26 were put at 18 killed and 40 wounded

Viet Cong casualties declined somewhat to 1 122 killed and 92 captured compared with 1 357 killed and 122 captured in the previous week a spokesman said

Neutralize Asia

Fulbright Idea Is Called Impractical

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials discounted as impractical today Sen J W Fulbright s call for a broad agreement with Communist China to neutralize all of Southeast Asia

They said the Chinese Reds repeatedly have refused even to talk with the United States about a settlement in that war torn section

U S policy makers are convinced that the Chinese Communist leaders believe in fact that continuation of the war in Viet Nam and even the threat of more general conflict in Southeast Asia is in their interest until such time as Communist successes can begin to bring the area under Red control

Hence Fulbright s proposal made in a Senate speech Tuesday is regarded by President Johnson s advisers as cutting across the current Peking doctrine and therefore having no prospect of practical application at this time

Whether it will ever become possible according to the view of these officials depends on changes in the attitude of the Chinese Communist leadership Some officials believe that the leaders in Peking having suffered a variety of reversals during the past year or so may now be confronted with a need for new policy decisions But these officials also think that the result of a reassessment in Peking could be to launch Communist China on an even more dangerous course

Central Issue

Fulbright Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told the Senate that the central issue in the Vietnamese war is a contest between Chinese and American power

The prospect for a lasting peace depends far more on a resolution of that issue than it does on the matter of who is to participate in a South Vietnamese government and by what means it shall be formed he said

Know Right From Wrong

Test for Legal Insanity Being Junked by States

BALTIMORE Md (AP) — A leading opponent of the M Naghten test for insanity said today the 123 year-old rule is on the way out

There s no question that the trend is in that direction said Dr Manfred S Guttmacher chief medical officer of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore I think within the next 25 years most states will have abandoned M Naghten

The M Naghten rule which holds that the test of insanity is the ability to distinguish right from wrong has been part of English law since 1843

But court decisions and legislative acts have been chipping away at the test in recent years — the latest Monday when the 2nd U S Court of Appeals in New York threw out the M Naghten rule on grounds it doesn t go far enough

Control Behavior

The court ruled that a person is not responsible for criminal conduct even though he knows an act is wrong if he cannot control his behavior The decision which applies only to federal courts in the 2nd Circuit of New York Connecticut and Vermont implements a 1962 proposal of the American Law Institute

Guttmacher one of 26 persons who helped draft the proposal said previous U S Court of Appeals decisions in the District of Columbia and Philadelphia had outlawed M Naghten

In addition he said Vermont and Illinois have adopted the American Law Institute rule which has been suggested as part of a model penal code and New York has adopted a modified version

Mental Disease

Guttmacher said Maine is under the Durham rule which holds that if a person has a mental disease and an act of his is a product of that disease he should not be held responsible New Hampshire the only one of the contiguous 48 states not to adopt M Naghten has been under the Durham rule since the 1860s

Study Finds Little Boys Nice

Who is Sugar and Spice?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What are little girl made of? It could be nips and tail and puppy dog tails

And little boys How about sugar and spice and everything nice?

That s not quite the way a psychologist would put it but that was more or less the conclusion reached after a study of first grade pupils to see who was nicer boys or girls

The psychologist concluded that girls are more aggressive and reject other people more than boys

2-Member Clubs

First graders — 84 of them — were organized into two member clubs with special names and badges The members of each club were of the same sex and from the same classroom

Later children from other classrooms were introduced into each of these exclusive little clubs

So which treated the newcomers better — boy clubs or girl clubs?

Exclusion Rejection

The initial response of girls to a new member whether it was a stranger or a boy was more likely to be one of exclusion and rejection said spokesmen for the University of California at Los Angeles in a report on the experiment

"Many more of the girls," the report said on learning that a third child was to join them spontaneously made some negative critical remark

While previous studies have suggested boys were more aggressive than girls such findings seem to relate to their greater physical activity

The indirect aggression of exclusion and rejection of a newcomer by the girls in this study appeared to be more a reflection of attitude which culminates in inflicting pain and discomfort on some other child

The experiment was conducted by Dr Norma Feshback 39 a mother of three — including an 8-year-old daughter

Congress Passes Bill Authorizing $4.8 Billion Viet Nam War Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Asia and an accommodation President Hubert H Humphrey with Communist China said in faced questioning today on the in interview he decided right administration s Asia policies if the end to vote for the after Congress overwhelming Morse proposal passage Tuesday of a $4 8 billion Viet Nam authorization

I approve of Mr Morse s sentiment he said I wanted to give him a good vote

Fulbright said he regrets passage of the 1964 resolution which he sponsored at the time He added it was passed after the Tonkin Gulf attack but now you have an entirely different set of circumstances

Voting Reason

One reason he voted as he did Fulbright said was because I didn want to reaffirm the same thing

There was argument over what the vote on the rider rejected approval of Johnson s course in Viet Nam Sen Richard B Russell D Ga said the action put the Senate solidly behind the President

McCarthy who voted with Morse said the 1964 resolution did not give the President any more power than he already had He said Morse s amendment would not take any authority away from the chief executive

Responsible Action

White House press secretary Bill D Moyers said Johnson believed the Senate had acted responsibly in rejecting the Morse proposal

The President welcomes and out fighting men and allies will gratefully approve the congressional actions of today Moyers said

Sen Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said rejection of the Morse proposal was a vote for whatever

Americans Don't Understand but Like Prosperity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt Gen Lewis B Hershey Selective Service director said today Americans don t like and don understand the distant dim war in Viet Nam but they like the prosperity it generates

Hershey who in nearly a quarter century as head of the Selective Service System has directed the military draft of 13 million young men said the general public doesn t understand the war in Viet Nam because It s distant it s dim

WASHINGTON AP — Rep L Mendel Rivers said today the House Armed Services Committee he heads will hear Lt Gen Lewis B Hershey and then decide whether to investigate the military draft

The South Carolina Democrat s statement came after 30 Republican House members called for an immediate probe Hershey is Selective Service chief

The Republicans charged Tuesday that the present draft system is haphazard and mired in a red tape jungle

Rivers whose committee would make any such investigation said none of the Republicans had talked with him in advance of their statement

Cabinet Post Would Pull Toegther Various Federal Agencies of Allied Nature

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to create a department of transportation pulling together many activities now handled elsewhere and to provide $600 million for a six-year highway safety program and $200 million for the supersonic transport plane

In urging a 12th Cabinet post Johnson said America today lacks a coordinate transportation system that permits travelers and goods to move conveniently and efficiently from one means of transportation to another using the best characteristics of each

He proposed the development of such a coordinated system as a principal assignment for the new department

Highway Safety

In the area of highway safety Johnson proposed mandatory authority for setting up federal standards if voluntary methods fail

Another proposal in that area was study of the feasibility of separate routes for trucks and automobiles

And the President called for action to promote safety at sea recalling recent disasters involving vessels not up to modern American specifications

In the supersonic transport section of the message Johnson proposed a schedule that would provide for flight testing of a 2 000 mile an hour airliner by 1970 and commercial production by 1974

The President has indicated that he wants increased taxes on fuels used by general aviation a new tax on air freight and a fuel tax so that operators on the inland waterway system would help pay some of the new programs cost

Department Functions

Johnson said the new department would bring together almost 100 000 employes and almost $6 billion of federal funds now devoted to transportation

Among functions which would be consolidated in the department

Man, 23, Shows No Emotion Over Trial or Penalty

TUCSON Ariz AP —Charles Schmid s reaction since his arrest and Tuesday when a jury found him guilty of murdering two girls has been notable for one thing—the lack of emotion

That s the way it goes said Schmid s wife hearing the jury recommend death in the gas chamber

Schmid was charged with murdering Gretchen Fritz 17 and her sister Wendy 13 last Aug 16 He was arrested Nov 10 the day the girls bodies were found They were daughters of a prominent Tucson heart surgeon The trial began Feb 15

Demanded Death

Prosecutor Richard Schafer said in demanding the death penalty Schmid killed Gretchen because she knew that Schmid had slain Alice Rowe 14 and his was enough to send him to the electric chair

Schmid is charged with first degree murder in the Rowe death

Groundwork for Regional Study

80 Brillion Residents Interviewed To Start Community Attitude Profile

BRILLION — About 80 residents were interviewed here as the start of a survey to determine community attitudes for a county-wide regional economic social and population profile

Doing the groundwork for the regional profile were representatives of the Department of Rural Sociology University of Wisconsin, Madison and the Industrial Relations Center, University of Chicago

Brillion was chosen for this 'sample community profile' because it is a growing and prosperous area with rich agricultural lands surrounding it, according to R B Holloway, professor at the University of Chicago, and Dr Douglas Marshall of the University of Wisconsin

Test Attitudes

According to Marshall the two groups are working together to test types of scales that are to be used for testing community attitudes It will give information about the community that will be released when results are available he said

The field work in Calumet County will be continued in May June and later months Marshall is particularly interested in Brillion and Outagamie, Brown Manitowoc and Calumet counties because these areas are an important link between community studies he has conducted in the past and studies he will do in the future

Brillion citizens were asked how they feel about their community so the group can get an economic social and population profile

We are testing the techniques used in Brillion and will then do this on a county level , Marshall said

Help Project Planning

We will work with welfare, education agriculture and industrial leaders to help them in their projected planning he added

This is not a new venture according to Marshall The first similar survey in the U S was conducted in Wisconsin s Walworth County in 1915 and in 1921 a Dane County survey took place

Valuable information was tabulated from surveys taken in 1956 and 1958 in Price and Kenosha counties respectively Restudies were made in 1965 and 1961 and by comparing the generally rural Price County to urban Kenosha County those in charge were able to check methods to estimate population changes

Picked at Random

Brillion residents interviewed were picked at random and no names were disclosed

A sampling of questions includes

— How did people treat you when you first moved to town?'

— If a new business moved in town what would you like it to be?

— Where do you do your grocery shopping?'

— 'Do you like the size of this community or would you like it to grow?'' A 58-question self - administered community opinion questionnaire was left with those who were interviewed They were asked to fill it out and send it unsigned to the Industrial Relations Center, Chicago They were asked to check one of four answers — 1) strongly agree 2) agree 3) disagree or 4) strongly disagree

Sample questions are — Hard work counts more than education to get ahead around here

— I don t envy the people who have just moved in and have to find friends

— I feel very much that I belong here

— This community would be better if more people would get involved in local government

— Our community should attract more industry

— A local health clinic is necessary in a small community

— Our schools do a poor job of preparing students for college

Other questions deal with the role of the churches in community life, the school system, industries, governmental responsibility and medical facilities

From the results of this community survey the research can assess the attitudes of the residents test their survey techniques and then begin work throughout the counties

Solons Vow Aid for New London Grant

City Seeks Federal Aid for $120,000 Sewer Plant Revamp

NEW LONDON — City council members were encouraged by news Tuesday regarding their request for federal assistance in constructing a $120 000 addition to the municipal sewage plant

U S Sens Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire and Seventh District Rep Melvin R Laird told the council they would do all in their power to see that the city received a federal grant for the addition in 1966

The city s application for federal assistance was turned down by the State Committee on Water Pollution which studies and approves applications for federal grants

Committee action was taken in November but city officials were not aware of it until Ray Pelishek public works director inquired about the status of the city s request in January

Third of Cost

Federal assistance would have covered about one third of the project s cost

Nelson said bills he planned to propose would vastly increase funds available for construction projects to combat pollution of the nation s streams lakes and rivers

Laird said more than 65 applications for federal aid had been submitted to the state committee for approval in 1965 Laird said he would urge passage of the New London application this year

Proxmire said he would cooperate with whatever Nelson proposes

Nelson also referred the city back to the Committee on Water Pollution to work on obtaining approval of its program

Theodore F Wisniewski, committee director ordered New London on Aug 30 1964 to have improved treatment facilities in operation by Jan 31 1968 A problem of separation of clear water from the sewage system also must be solved " he said

Estimates of the addition cost must be re examined because of the time lapse Pelishek said The city can either continue without any aid or make application for assistance in 1967

The council voted to give the Chamber of Commerce $25 to help cover expenses of attending the Milwaukee Sport Show March 12, designated "New London Day in the Waupaca County booth Persons from the city will be at the booth during the day distributing folders which describe the city

Site Recommended For Brillion School

Option Taken on Sommers Tract; District Meeting Set March 28

BRILLION — A parcel of approximately 37½ acres of land on the east side of the city at the end of Horn Street has been recommended by the building committee as a site for the proposed new high school

A public meeting to present the proposal to the district electors will be at 8 p m Monday March 28 at the high school

A special district meeting will be called to give the school board the needed legal powers to purchase this property if acceptable to district voters Financing a site purchase was approved at the annual district meeting in July The board placed $43 461 in a reserve building fund Spending of the money must be approved by the district electors This fund will eliminate the need for borrowing all the money required for constructing the school if a bond issue is approved

An alternate site north of Brillion on County Trunk PP was considered in the building committee s final evaluation It consists of one 17 acre parcel and one 33 acre parcel adjoining the St Mary Cemetery The owner Nick Binsfeld gave the school an option on all or any part of the tract Cost would be $700 per acre

Legislator Resents 'Scuttling'

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

State Sen Gerald Lorge (R Bear Creek) today told Gov Warren P Knowles that he will oppose the recommendation of a Green Bay site for the proposed northeastern branch of the University of Wisconsin

In a letter to Knowles and members of the State Assembly Senate Coordinating Committee on Higher Education State Building Commission and Site Selection Committee Lorge said he resented the scuttling of the intent and letter of the law passed by the State Legislature authorizing a new university

Last Friday the Site Selection Committee recommended the Shorewood site on Green Bay s east side for the new campus Monday the Fox Cities Education Committee wrote to Knowles protesting the recommendation and asked him to nullify it

Tuesday Assemblyman Harold Froehlich (R Appleton) said the Fox Cities group should seek an injunction to halt further action on the site selection Lorge advised the group Monday to hire an attorney and seek an injunction The group will consider the proposal Friday

In his letter to Knowles Lorge said he is sure that the Legislature and the building commission will not authorize this type of dormitory school which would defeat the original concept of the bill cause the state to spend millions of dollars in new highway construction and prevent most of the students in this area from commuting on a feasible economical basis

He noted that the Legislature intended the new campus to serve the greatest number of commuting students

Ignored Commuters

Lorge said that the committee by recommending the Shorewood site because of aesthetic beauty has ignored the many students and their parents in the Appleton Neenah Menasha and Kaukauna area with a real interest in education on a commuting basis

The Site Selection Committee has not carried out its duties charged Lorge and has failed to adhere to the provisions of the law which state that the state policy is to make educational opportunities broad throughout the state and educationally and economically feasible to all students

Lorge said The Green Bay University proposal is so remote that it even surprised many Brown County residents

Build New Roads

He added that new roads would have to be built to make this site more accessible to the surrounding area adding that the site will have to be served with a Towerview Drive including a high level bridge which will have to be built across the Fox River north of Green Bay

Lorge accused the Site Selection Committee of carrying out its task without any real plan He noted that at public criteria hearings the committee included Neenah Menasha and parts of Waupaca County in the area to be served

Then in the committee s report in finding only one site it said that if Neenah-Menasha were counted an Outagamie County site would be more feasible for the majority of commuting students Lorge noted

He charged the committee with inconsistency by noting that it decided a Green Bay site would better serve the region from a commuting standpoint since Neenah and Menasha were so close to Wisconsin State University Oshkosh

Such inconsistent statements by a committee that violate its own guiding rules leave the taxpayers of this state and parents and students wondering just what type of leadership we have on our vocational education governing committees Lorge commented

Council Approves Rezoning Of 250 Acres in Chilton

Change Tracts From Agricultural To Residential Following Hearing

CHILTON — Approximately 200 acres of prime residential land were rezoned from an agricultural designation to a A residential as a result of city council action Tuesday night

The move recommended by the planning commission followed a public hearing The planning commission indicated that it advocated the change to protect the land s use

Involved were 200 acres lying both and south along the city s northwest side and 50 acres in the southeast section near Memorial Drive

Aldermen also passed a resolution requesting that the proposed Milwaukee Green Bay expressway be located near the city and asked the State Highway Commission to advise the city regarding site choice Copies of the resolution will be sent to Sen Robert Warren and to Assemblyman Wilmer Struebing

Bids will be taken for the city garbage removal contract and opened at 8 p m April 6

A public hearing was set for April 6 regarding a request by the Wisconsin Public Service Corp to rezone property on New Holstein Street from agricultural to light industrial to permit construction of a building on the area

Sewer Extension

Director of public works Walter Muehl was authorized to have McMahon Associates Inc Menasha the city engineering company draw up plans and specifications for sewer extension along New Holstein Street and for sewer and water extension along portions of Manhattan and Breed streets These extensions will have to be approved following a public hearing

The purchase of a carload of water pipe was authorized The cost was estimated at about $4 300 for the 2 000 feet at slightly more than $2 a foot Delivery is expected to take up to six months due to difficulty in obtaining material

The city received a letter from the state highway commission saying it was unlikely the city s request for aid to resurface portions of U S 151 and State 57 along Chestnut and to make changes on the Madison Main intersection and to relocate Main Street would receive attention within the next three years

Lack of Funds

The commission pointed out that lack of funds made quicker action impossible but that the request would be reviewed periodically in the event that additional funds became available

It was decided to apply for aquatic weed control on the Manitowoc River

The county will be asked for a new contract stating the terms of the police radio operation agreement with the city The January bill for the city s share of the operating cost was $434 which represents a 10 cent hourly increase

Letters from the Wisconsin League of Municipalities informed aldermen that members of the Wisconsin Park and Recreation committees will meet March 23-25 in Eau Claire and building and fire inspectors have meetings scheduled in Green Bay April 20-22 if the city wishes to participate nsiderable debate, al-noved to permit the legislative committee to study the rules governing the purchasing committee and make recommendations on streamlining the committee. Aldermen argued many purchases are approved by other committees after extensive investigation, and referring these purchases to the purchasing committee for approval was merely duplication of effort.

Some council members felt the purchasing committee could serve as a checks and balance on spending by other committees.

Mayor Bayorgeon was instructed to call a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, planning commission, council and interested builders for 7 p.m. March 28 to discuss the need for multiple housing development in the city and necessary zoning and building code changes to make this a reality.

Zoning Change

Plans were made to meet with representatives of firms interested in drawing up a master plan for the city at 4 p.m. March 4 and 9. A request from Raymond Lummerding for a change in zoning from class A to class B residential was referred to the planing commission. Lummerding desires to change his home from a single to double dwelling.

The State Highway Commission notified the council a study would be made of the speed zone on State Highway 55 from Henry Street to the south city limits. Action was prompted by Ald. Richard Helf, Third Ward who requested a reduction in the speed zone in this area at the last council session.

Approval was given to the purchase of $3,459 in radio equipment which will make it possible for police in a central station to be in contact with men on the beat or in patrol cars by walkie-talkie, eliminating routing of calls through the sheriff's department.

A request from the Veterans of Foreign Wars for $500 with which to help finance a summer parade in conjunction with that unit's picnic, was referred to the health and recreation and finance committee for study.

The Hobbled Giant

The state's decision to locate the new northeast campus of the University of Wisconsin at Green Bay, rather than near the Fox Cities, has dealt a severe blow to the ambitions and hopes of this community. Coming on top of the Fox Cities' defeat in the regional airport case, it sounds a clear warning that there is something drastically wrong with our ability to make our voice heard in the councils where these vital decisions are made.

The Fox Cities make up the largest metropolitan area in Wisconsin north of Milwaukee and Madison; we have more population than Green Bay, and over twice the population of Oshkosh. Moreover, we are the most centrally located. Yet our two smaller neighbors have defeated us on these all-important site location issues.

In the airport case Oshkosh argued — successfully — that we were too close to Green Bay. Then in the university case, Green Bay argued that we were too close to Oshkosh! This is what is known as being whipsawed; we are beginning to feel like the ball in a tennis game.

The basic problem is that while those of us who live here know that the Fox Cities is a single, unified metropolitan community, this is not yet recognized in Madison, Washington and the other decision-making centers. They still think of us as a loose grouping of small cities and villages "down in the valley," the term "Fox valley cities" is often used.

It is interesting to note that if the Outagamie - Winnebago county line were located five miles farther south, both the airport and university decisions would have been different. If Neenah-Menasha had been located in the same county as the rest of the Fox Cities, there is no doubt that an adequate Fox Cities airport would have been built early in the game — and that airport today would be the dominant one in this region. And the university site selection committee was candid in saying that had it included Neenah-Menasha in its calculations, it would have picked a Fox Cities site for the new institution. If Neenah and Menasha were not located in another county, it never would have occurred to the committee to leave them out of the calculations.

What lesson must we learn from this? It is that the Fox Cities must speak with a more unified voice. For while there has been wonderful cooperation among Fox Cities leaders in recent years, we still speak with separate voices, even when those voices agree. We still have separate Chambers of Commerce, separate Community Chests, separate this and separate that. We are even divided as to Congressional districts. That county line has become a wall, against which natural and legitimate community aspirations are being dashed.

The final proof of how outsiders fail to recognize the importance of the Fox Cities is found in the fact that the site selection committee not only favored Green Bay, but located the new campus northeast of that city! This means Fox Cities students will have to drive through the city of Green Bay to reach the school! Had the decision been to locate the campus west or south of Green Bay, the Fox Cities leaders would have had to accept it gracefully if with some disappointment; but this complete ignoring of our interests is clear evidence that our voice was not really heard at all.

Whipsawed

Mrs. Wallace Runs—Sort Of

Women who have been elected to public office entirely upon their own qualifications are irate over the candidacy of Mrs. George Wallace for governor of Alabama.

Governor Wallace is not eligible to succeed himself according to the Alabama constitution, a document he tried unsuccessfully to change last year. His wife's candidacy cannot be regarded exactly as a subterfuge. Both have announced that its aim is to enable George Wallace, not his wife Lurleen, to run the executive branch. At the announcement of her candidacy Mrs. Wallace said that "my election would enable my husband to carry on his programs for the people of Alabama." And the governor said that "If my wife is elected, we are frank and honest to say that I shall be by her side and shall make the policies and decisions affecting the next administration."

While this togetherness approach to political office may be applauded, especially by northern men who might like to see a little more such feminine attitude to let them have charge of things in their own businesses and households, there is something disturbing about the move. It has been done in Wisconsin in campaigns for sheriff since they are not allowed to have more than two consecutive terms. But while there is obviously no attempt here to fool the voter in the Wallace strategy there is something disturbing about it nevertheless. In effect the governor is saying that the constitutional provision is nonsense and he intends to evade it. Nonsense it indeed may be but the governor's failure to overturn it ought to have convinced him that there was a lot of opposition to the change.

There are so many candidates — nine so far — in the Democratic primary in Alabama that its outcome is certainly in doubt. The considerable effort to register Negroes who have not voted before may show its effect in this primary since the only well - known candidate with anti-segregationist views is Attorney General Richmond Flowers.

If Mrs. Wallace should succeed in winning the governorship for her husband she may start a new trend in politics. It may get to be that a voter simply won't be able to tell which member of a family he is choosing when he casts his ballot.

Assessment Procedures

With good administration of the property tax depending on the quality of the assessment system, a casual observer would come to the quick conclusion that uniformity in assessment practices is badly needed in Wisconsin, as in many states, where outmoded laws and formulas remain on the books.

Two bills pending in the Wisconsin Legislature should make for some improvement, especially on the town and village levels where uniformity is most often lacking.

State lawmakers should take a hard look at and give serious consideration to passage of Senate Bill 207, sponsored by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which would require the purchaser of a piece of property to file a record of the exact cost paid for the real estate. The reports would remain privileged information for use by the Department of Taxation and local assessors to aid in promoting uniform assessment of real property.

Assembly Bill 973 would establish the position of county assessor who would be in charge of making and compiling assessments for municipalities under 10,000 population, thus getting away from the practice of having partially-trained, part-time personnel making annual assessments.

In a recent report, the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance cited the fact that almost half of the total tax collections in Wisconsin comes from property taxes and this reliance on the property tax is expected to continue for years. It emphasized the importance of municipalities having experienced, well-trained assessors.

A legislative study of assessment procedures in 1963 showed that villages, towns and their subdivisions had the most assessment deficiencies. Thus, the inequality of local assessments can obviously be remedied by having more trained assessors and more uniform assessment laws. Unfortunately, Wisconsin is among the 13 states left in which each city, village and town has its own assessing department. This is a shotgun type of operation which breeds and perpetuates inequities in assessments. Legislative action is needed.

New Campus Plot

General Hershey's decision to start drafting college men who are in the lower academic ranks of their particular colleges may run into a whole series of troubles.

Snap courses, dull though they may be, are probably in for new records of enrollment by students who fear they might not make high grades in more difficult courses. Easier colleges may begin to get backlogs of applicants concerned that ranking in the upper half of a tough college is remote. A considerable number of colleges and universities are experimenting with plans to do away with grades in general, especially in fields outside the individual student's major field. Such programs will make rank in class difficult indeed to determine.

But an even more extreme form of sacrifice has been suggested by one distraught coed, appalled at the idea of a campus without men or at least only with men studying like mad to keep up their grades. The girls must carefully fail enough subjects to fill up the lower ranks of every class. It's either that or do without dates.

Wisconsin Report

Legislative Review of State Civil Service Law May Mushroom

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — When the legislature a few months ago approved a resolution for an interim review of the state civil service system and the operations of the 50-year-old civil service law, nobody paid much heed. It is the kind of periodical appraisal that the legislature often authorizes, when there seems to be a fair cause for it. The justification in this instance was the fact that the law is an old one and that perhaps some modifications to accommodate new conditions may be needed.

Wyngaard

But an unusually sharp commentary in the organ of the Wisconsin State Employes Association this week suggests that there may be more involved in the legislative inquiry than originally met the legislative eye. The association, a labor organization which represents a minority, but a strong minority, of the rank and file of civil servants of the state, makes it clear that it finds plenty of things wrong with the state employe recruitment and management system besides the standard issues of rates of pay, cost of living adjustments, sick leave and the usual interests of the organized worker.

THE GRIPES

Here are some of the serious complaints of the association as currently made public, in its own words:

Subjective merit rating procedures; heavily weighted promotional potential ratings in promotional examinations; restrictions on merit pay increases; pay discrimination in favor of junior employes at the expense of career workers; unrealistic statutory pay limits for department heads under the civil service system; inequities in veteran's preference; position classifications that disregard responsibilities and concentrate on duty characteristics; subjectivity in oral examinations; and suspicion of employing department influence in the selection of oral examination boards.

There are other criticisms by the association, which is not given to reckless or radical indictments of the system in which its members are employed. Presumably these are the criticisms of Roy Kubista, the manager of the association and a man of considerable experience and judgment. Kubista's reputation as a moderate and friendly critic of the state personnel management system over a long period is likely to give his words greater weight now—as the legislative inquiry group settles down to its task.

One complaint that will appear significant if there is a serious effort to follow up by the investigating committee is his publicly declared worry about encroachment of the unclassified on the classified service and discrimination in compensation for comparable duties. That means, in simpler language, that the civil servants are becoming annoyed about the gaping exceptions to civil service rules in major state employing departments, and the tendency to reward those who did not survive competition for their jobs with conspicuously higher pay in many instances.

BARGAINING?

Kubista's organization is plugging for a new law that would permit collective bargaining with department heads on some of these grievances and others to get rid of what the union manager calls "unilateralism" in state personnel policy.

Although the state employe organ zation's request is more modest than the collective bargaining act already effective bargaining act already effective for local government public employes, the chances are that it will be difficult to pass.

The chances are also that Kubista is making an especially vigorous case now to pick up some backers among the state senators who will confront the Assembly-approved collective bargaining bill when they return to session in May. Whatever the strategical considerations involved, however, the association has made some disturbing complaints that deserve the attention of the study group without regard to the political fate of the pending legislation. Citizens concerned about the integrity of state employment methods will generally agree.

Taylor Writes

Bobby Kennedy Trying to Siphon Liberal Support From Humphrey

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

What's cooking with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the Communist party line? If he's blind to the real problem of tyranny in the world somebody had better wake him up — he's dreaming.

Taylor

What would have happened to Bobby Kennedy if he had rationalized the Nazis as again and again he rationalizes the Reds today? He couldn't have been elected dogcatcher in a single American county, and least of all in New York City.

There's plenty of room for difference of opinion about our Viet Nam policy, but it's commonly stated in Washington that Bobby keeps pitching too far left in a plan to box Hubert H. Humphrey's Presidential chances by pre-empting some kind of super-liberal position in all issues.

PLAYING TWO ENDS

As usual, his political solutions proceed at two levels — one strategic and one operational. In addition to making certain of his own elevation to the 1972 nomination after President Johnson's two terms, Bobby is also making certain of his own 1968 nomination, instead of Humphrey, in the event anything should hapen to LBJ before then.

But where is a service to the public, and to peace, in all this?

When Bobby Kennedy was a law student at the University of Virginia he flunked the course in how to use the library. Well, he's a Senator now and surely he has some duty to turn to history before compounding, in the Kennedy name, our problem of peace.

If Bobby would kindly drop his pseudo intellectualism for a moment he might begin by reading Eudocio Ravines' classic, "Yenan Way," published here by Charles Scribner's in 1951 and in Spanish under the title, "La Gran Estafa."

Just as Dr. Karl Haushofer revealed the Nazis' intentions long before first steps could be taken, so was Red geopolitical planning in Asia spelled out by learned Ravines, who had been a part of it.

There Bobby could read the steps that yielded a Communist China, see Korea previewed, and see exactly what's happening in Viet Nam today.

Beyond this, Bobby's record itself grows "curioser and curioser," as another author had Alice remark.

Chroniclers of President Kennedy's period paint Bobby as practically a co-president, and the Bay of Pigs' frail design is his initial monument to perspicacity about Red forces and our national interest.

Within a year and a half Russia had been so encouraged that she placed her troops and missiles in Cuba. This required America to "confront" the U.S.S.R. President Kennedy ordered the blockade and, incredibly, took it off in less than 30 days. Will Bobby please tell us why? He never has.

Within another year Castro's Latin-American subversion was so damaging that President Kennedy was forced to make a trip to tell protesting leaders in the hemisphere that there was nothing he could do about it.

As this column has previously enumerated, six elected Latin-American governments promptly fell, including Dr. Juan Bosch's government in the Dominican Republic. President Kennedy was then forced to recognize and supply the military junta that threw Bosch out. This was the Dominican mess President Johnson inherited.

Next the White House solemnly warned the Reds to stay out of Laos. Bobby was on tap when we backed away. Now we see what's happening in Laos today.

Next we warned Khrushchev not to tamper with Berlin. Promptly the Reds built the Berlin Wall. And Bobby was on tap when we did not knock it down.

Even on his latest Latin - American trip he reportedly assured audiences that if a Communist were elected president of a Latin nation, the United States would not intervene. First, doesn't Bobby Kennedy know only the President has the authority to announce such a commitment, and, second, how conceivably could he have more encouraged the Communist insurrections we're supposed to be fighting by our aid dollars there?

Or listen to by's statement claiming it would be in the American tradition to send our blood to North Viet Nam. While Hitler killed our men on the Rhine was it in the American tradition to send our blood to Nazi Germany?

Senator Kennedy has his own political fish to fry. But what happens to the United States in the meanwhile?

Apparel Sales

Apparel manufacturing officials predict that apparel expenditures by Americans this year will run about 5 per cent higher than in 1965.

We Often Confuse Cause and Effect

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When I suggested that it is not the proper function of the schools to provide driving instructions, somebody replied that the high school students who took drivers' training courses had a lower rate of accidents than those who didn't.

Harris

Apart from the fact that this has nothing to do with whether the schools should offer driving instructions, it doesn't prove much, either. For one of our most common fallacies is confusing cause and effect.

Those who take drivers' training may have a lower accident rate than those who don't because those who take it are more interested in good driving, more intelligent, and more concerned with safety to begin with. It is not the training that gives them a better record, but the character they have that compels them to take training.

Confusing cause and effect is part of what logicians call "the Arizona fallacy." It is true that more persons die of respiratory ailments in Arizona than in any other state in the nation—therefore, Arizona must be worse for respiratory ailments than any other state. The fact that thousands of persons go there to recover from such ailments is not taken into consideration.

This kind of fallacy explains why some authorities will not accept the statistical evidence giving excessive cigaret smoking as the "cause" of lung cancer. Certainly they are linked in some way, and excessive smoking seems to lead to lung cancer in thousands of cases. But it may be equally true that people who tend to smoke excessively have a kind of temperament and constitution that predispose them to lung cancer.

Likewise, some heart disease experts made a study of 200 pairs of Irish brothers, half of whom emigrated to the United States, and half of whom remained in Ireland. It was found that many more of those who emigrated to America had heart attacks than of those who stayed home, and therefore something in the American diet and way of life was blamed.

But is is equally possible that the brothers who emigrated here were more aggressive, more kinetic, more filled with a drive to get ahead, more dissatisfied with their current status—and this is precisely the kind of man more likely to get a heart attack than his passive and relatively contented brother. Which is cause and which effect?

We must learn to deal very gingerly with facts and figures and statistics of this sort. We are still far from perfecting the new art of "factor analysis," which some day, we hope, will enable us to weigh all the determinants in a given situation, and allow us to know their inter-action as precisely as a chemist knows the elements in his tube.

Shoe Industry Had Good Year

In 1965 the shoe industry had its second-best production year on record, with an output of approximately 630 million pairs.

In addition, nearly 200 million pairs of rubber and canvas footwear were produced, bringing the total footwear output to 830 million pairs.

American consumers bought well over 900 million pairs of footwear in 1965 — domestic production plus imports — spending a total of $5.5 billion. The average per capita consumption of footwear amounted to $27.50.

Back the President, Cries Crescent

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 3, 1866.

Periled in war, baptized in blood, groaning under its burdens, and now shaken in peace by the soul-damning infamy of traitors and would-be tyrants, —the Sumners, Howes and Stevenses who would crown all by depriving the people of the last vestige of liberty, leaving them but the empty forms and hollow mockery of free government—the Union is defended by a Patriot of Iron Will who hurls them down and back from their foul purpose. They are defeated and disgraced, overthrown and branded with infamy.

"Glory to God in the highest, and peace on earth and good will among men."
